Southern Mills Are Making More Money Than Their Eastern Competitors-A Chance for Atlanta.

G. Cullnock, of the Boott mills

No Profit in the North.

"The fact is," said Mr. Clark, "that we an no lenger manufacture plain sheetings nd drills at a profit in the north. Against $2.50 per ton for coal in the south, we must pay $4 to $4.50. The climate there is milder. I'p here we must pay freight and brokerr pound on the raw cotton, which by itself is a fair profit for a mill making coarse arn goods. The labor, too, costs 30 per ent more here than it does down there. These are some of the main reasons why ve cannot manufacture the sheeting and the south. Along with the Dwight and eek a more favorable location for making

We have valuable trade marks on these pity for us to abandon that kind of work. We can make the goods for, say about 41/4 its a yard, and in the market we can get, say, about 41/2 cents per yard. In the south, culd produce similar goods for about 3 nts per yard, yielding an excellent profit.'

Southern Labor Is Cheaper.

"About five years ago, the last time we mpared our weavers' wages with those similar work in the south, I found there were many important things discriminating against us. Our weavers worked ten hours a day, or sixty hours a week, and averaged out $1.15 a day in wages. In the south they worked seventy-two nours per week and got about 60 to 70 cents a day. In other words, the southern manufacturer paid 5 cents an hour while we paid 10 to 11. I believe that they are now running sixty-nine hours a week against our sixty-eight hours To offset these things, we nave changed over about one-half of our plant here to the production of a finer class of goodsgoods with fancy weaves-in which the price of raw cotton does not enter so much into the cost of production that it controls the prices. These fine goods sell higher, and therefore allow us to pay living

First Class Labor, Too.

On the same subject, Mr. Clark says: "The labor, while cheap, is of a very fine class. All the female help in the mills down there are farmers' daughters, who are glad to work for small wages, which seem large to them, as seem large to them, as are not so accustomed money as we are here. The negroes do not work in the cotton mills down there, so the white people are quite willing to ake up that form of work. These southern girls are strong, quick to learn and

"Reports of production from good southern mills show that the machinery, as a rule, is run a little faster than in the north and the goods are of excellent quality, which is the best proof of the efficiency of he labor in the south."

Mr. Clark was inclined to qualify conficonvictions of immediate mill building by the Boott Company, and said with reference to the petition now before the

"We ask the legislature to give us the right to do business outside this state; that we should feel disposed at any future time to make a change, we should be in a the making of plain export goods-the kind of goods the trademarks of which are of such value and which at present we must make at almost a loss, and which can be made at a great profit in the south."

Has Seen Its Best Days.

Mr. Cullnock added that New England had seen its best days as a manufacturing center. Lowell had water power and that was all. The mills are mostly run by steam, however. The additional machinery put in, Mr. Cullnock said, since the water power was exhausted, has had to be run by coal which is brought here in sailing ves-sels from Pennsylvania and Maryland, and with the freight to Lowell, makes the fuel very expensive. This, with the cheap cottide in favor of the south on plain goods. Joseph S. Ludlow, agent of the Merrima nills, said today: "We have as yet no site selected, but we want to be in a position to do that sort of thing if we find we have to. We are at a great disadvantage here in every depart ment, but especially in our print work, in consequence of the big cost of coal. Fall River and New Bedford are growing with steam mills because they get their coal for less than we do. We are manufacturing the finer grades of cloth in our mills here. Labor is cheaper in the south; besides the supply is greater and the hours longer, while there is an immense capacity for the manufacture of coarse goods."

Tennessee Democrats Have Balked the Republicans in Their Plan.

Nashville, Tenn., January 11 .- (Special.)-Today has been full of interest to those watching the developments in the proposed contest over the governorship. It now ooks like the democrats have the upper hand and that their plan will go through. Certain it is, that the holdover plan will be uccessful and that Governor Turney will hold office pending the legislation providing a method of procedure in case of a contest. In the event such a law is passed, he will hold over during the investigation of the charges of fraud, notwithstanding the fact that on the face of the returns Evans has a

The senate substitute resolution which provides for indefinite delay of the joint onvention to count the vote for governor was adopted by the senate today by a strict party vote with the exception of Senator Cotes, democrat, who voted with the republicans and populists. The vote was: Ayes, 19; nays, 14.

The discussion was not concluded until 1 o'clock, the democrats insisting that the legislature could fix any date during the session for opening the returns and that when opened the vote must be counted and the speaker must announce the result.

The republicans took the position that it was only necessary to open the returns and publish the result and that the speaker need not declare the result; that the general assembly was simply there to witness the cpening and publication. The hope is that when the returns are opened and the vote announced, Evans may have himself sworn n as governor on the ground that the face of the returns shows his election, not regarding the contest law which it is propos ed to pass. The senace resolutions, after being adopted, were sent to the house, which began the consideration of them at the afternoon session The discussion will when a vote is reached they will be con-

The next step will be the passage of the bill prescribing a method of procedure in cases of contest of the governor's election. The resolution was about to be rushed through the house this afternoon without discussion, but it was decided not to appear even to be taking snap judgment and debate was allowed to begin. After the roll call on the resolution had all but begun, the reading of a letter received by Representative Richardson, of Dickson, from W. T. Davis, a republican, advising him not to go into a democratic caucus, and that now was the time to make something did not cause much company.

Lynchburg, Va., January 11.—This city has been considerably stirred up for the last few days by the investigations of common abuses by the grand jury. Judge Christian, who succeeded to the bench January 1st, seems to have been credited with having brought about the investiga tion. About 150 young men of various avocations in life were summoned before the grand jury to tell what they knew about gambling, Sunday liquor drinking and prostitution. Their testimony has re-sulted in about forty presentments by the grand jury, including nearly all the prin-cipal saloons in town, the gambling rooms and several houses of bad repute.

No Matter How Hard Springer is Batted He Always Comes Back.

LIKE A RUBBER BALL

AND EVERYBODY BATS HIM. TOO

Friends of the Nicaragua Canal Despair of Their Bill.

SILVER MEN HOLD OUT FOR TERMS

Compromise It Might Be Possible to Pass Some Financial Measure.

Washington, January 11 .- (Special.)-Mr. Springer is the rubber ball of congress. It matters not how severely he is pounded, or how often he falls, each time he comes up with a smiling face, a red carnation and a basketful of roseate predictions.

Though everybody else says all hopes of the passage of a financial bill anything like the Carlisle bill, by this congress have passed, Springer will not admit it. He says after allowing the feeling to settle down he will again call up his bill in the house-perhaps next week-and will push it Though Springer says he expects to pass the bill, no one here has any idea that he believes anything of the kind. And indeed. the demoralization is so complete that it is feared this congress will do nothing whatever besides passing the appropriation bills.

The friends of the Nicaragua canal bill have abandoned hope of passing that at this session. They do not think the Morgan bill will even get through the senate. Indeed, it does not look like anything will get through the senate. The fight over the appropriation for collecting the income tax in the urgen, deficiency appropriation bill. it seems from the present outlook, will tie up that body for some time. Then the republicans want to delay matters in the senate in order to prevent any further tampering with the tariff at this session.

Senator Aldrich, the republican tariff eader, said today that the senate would not make any change whatever in the present tariff laws. He added, that he did not believe the senate would do anything except to pass the regular appropriation

How the House Views It.

In the house, however, the currency ques tion is coming up again and often. Yesterday Springer spent several hours with the president and Mr. Carlisle, talking over the situation. Springer has led them to hope that something will be done and the president is trying to urge his friends in the house to push the matter. Yesterday he told several members that unless something was done at this session he feared he would be forced to call an extra session of the new congress immediately after the

If the administration people would make some concessions to the silver men it would be possible to do something. But Springer, after his talk with the president yesterday, announced that no concessions would be made to the extent of silver coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1. Of course this announce-mert has made the silver men mad and they will knife Springer and anything he might propose whenever they have an opportunity.

As a matter of fact, congress is now divided on the same line that it was during the first session of this congress, when the question of repealing the Sherman law was up. The silver men do not seem to be they are just as bull-headed this time as Mr. Cleveland ever was, and they declare that no currency bill shall pass unless it be favorable to the white metal.

The silver men in congress are very much encouraged at the political events which have happened throughout the country recently and especially because of the action of the Wyoming legislature in turning down Senator Carey because he has not been friendly to silver. This action, they say, strengthens the cause in the one piace st where it has been weak.

The Turning Down of Mr. Carey Mr. Carey's offense dates back to the fight to repeal the Sherman law. He took ssue with the silver men in that fight, and was severely arraigned by them for . his ourse. It will be remembered that Senator Wolcott criticised him very severely at the time. Though Mr. Carey did everything he could to win a relection, he did not get a single vote. "The turning down of Senator Carey by the Wyoming legislature," said Charles H. Stahl, of Colorado, today, "means that in future no man will be sent to either branch of congress by a western state who is not known as an uncompromising advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. While at heart Carey is a silver man, he committed the blunder of voting for the repeal of the Sherman law. The legislature of Oregon will, in my opinion refuse to return Senator Dolph because h retuse to return Senator Dolph because he has been recreant to silver. My policy is to defeat every western public man who shows the least disposition to even flirt with the 'goldbugs.' By the way, the present senate is solid enough on the silver question, but after the 4th of March, next, it will be still more so."

Speaking about the silver sentiment in the west today, Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, a republican, said:

"The west wants genuine bimetallism and the outlook at this time is favorable for the taking of some important step in that direction.

"The west is merely insisting that when the business experience of twenty years has demonstrated that the single gold standard will not meet the demands of the country, and the law on the statute books calls for the use of both gold and silver, the only wise and just thing is to give silver a full part of the work to be done. But we are opposed to any further parley with England on the subject. That, as everybody knows, would be time wasted. What we want now is action and that as early as possible."

The silver men of both parties are orlieved that such a bill can pass the senate, at this session, but the silver men want to the fight. They are united in determined in determined in determined in the senate in the senat

He and Quay Are Trying to Knock Out the Income Tax.

Washington, January 11.—(Special.)—Sen-ator Hill opened his warfare on the income tax appropriation in the senat: to-day, and fought stubbornly throughout the ession. Quay is his only ally. These two men are fighting against a united senate and, of course, it cannot last long. The currency question came up in the senate today by the introduction of the Vest bill. The measure, however, stands little chance of successfully running the gauntlet. Dubois, in a speech, expressed the opinion that no financial bill would pass this or the next congress. Coming from a republican silver leader, the speech is significant.

THEY WANT THE EXHIBIT.

Tennessee Commissioners Before the Appropriations Committee. Washington, January 11.—The house ap-propriations committee today heard members of the Tennessee centennial commis sion in support of the bill of Mr. Washing sion in support of the bill of Mr. Washington, appropriating $200,000 to enable the government to make an exhibit at the Tennessee centennial exposition, to be held at Nashville in 1896. The director general, Major Wills, of Nashville, opened the hearing. He made a very full statement of the scope, object and purposes of the exposition, giving the amount of money already subscribed and the amount expected to be raised. The exposition would be a success subscribed and the amount expected to raised. The exposition would be a success whether the government made an exhibit or not, but the government exhibit was specially desired, because of its educational value as showing the resources of the value as snowing the resolutes of scountry.

General Henderson, of Knoxville, vice president of the East Tennessee Association; Colonel Killebrew, of Nashville, and Colonel Overton, of Memphis, made short addresses touching the importance of the proposed exhibit, and M. T. Bryan, of Nashville, closed the hearing with a very appropriate presentation of the case.

After the hearing Representative Washington, of Tennessee, requested Mr. Sayers, of Texas, chairman of the committee, to appoint a subcommittee to take charge of the measure. This Mr. Sayers agreed to do. The subcommittee, which will be named later, will consider the matter and report their findings to the ruil committee for final action. untry.

FOR SOUTHERN WAR CLAIMS.

A Bill on Which Sectional Lines May

Be Drawn.

Washington, January II.—What may result in a division of the house on strictly sectional lines will be an order from the committee on rules next week fixing the time for the consideration of a bill to pay certain southern war claims. A bill providing for the settlement of the claims of citizens in both northern and southern states was reported some time ago from the committee on war claims, and is now on the house calendar. Some of the members of this committee learned today that another bill, which looks only to the payment of southern claims, is the one which the committee on rules will take cognizance of. The war claims members are exercised over the Be Drawn. war claims members are exercised over the matter and an effort will be made, when the rule is reported, on Monday or Tuesday of next week, to defeat it, their argument being that the bill reported from their committee is fairly and impartially drawn and the only measure that ought to pass the house. Some quiet missionary work was done on the floor of the house today by certain members of the war claim committee looking to the presence in their seats next week, when the order is repozed, of as many northern men, both republicans and democrats, as can be counted upon to antagonize the action of the committee on

Most of that the was used by all lill in advocacy of the amendment offered by him yesterday giving courts of the United States jurisdiction to hear and determine suits to test the constitutionality and validity of the tax. He said he hoped the constitutional transfer would help him out to the the senate would help him out in it, and that it ought not to be inflicted upon tax-payers. Mr. Sherman said that in the main he agreed with the New York senator in ne agreed with the New York senator in regard to the tax, but he held that a re-fusal of the senate to give money to carry it out would tend to overthrow the princi-ples on which the government is establish-ed. An appeal from this was taken by Mr. Hill and at that stage of the proceedings the whole matter went over till tomorrow. Two of the calendar bills were introduced, one by Mr. Vest and one by Mr. McPherson, the latter authorizing the sale of bonds.

The salient points of the bill of Mr. Vest are these: It makes no reference to the refunding of the greenbacks, provides for the unlimited coinage of silver at the market price, the government taking the seigniforage; it calls in all gold and silver certificates and treasury notes and substitute certificates that shall be redeemable in either gold or silver according to each The silver men of both parties are organizing in the senate for a fight. It is probable that Senator Blackburn will lead the gnovement and that he will call up one of the many pending free coinage bills and open debate on it very soon. It is not believed that such a bill can pass the senate, at this session, but the silver men want to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, set to be redeemable in either gold or silver according to conditions, if the surplus in the treasury is less than one hundred million, to be redeemable in either gold or silver according to conditions, if the surplus in the treasury is less than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred million, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred millions, to be redeemed in silver; if more than one hundred millions, supported that such a bull than one hundred millions, supported than one hundred millions, supported than one hundred mill

He Let Other Banks Have State Funds Hoping to Save Them and Prevent a General Panic.

Pierre, S. D., January 11.-The Taylor dealcation still absorbs all the interest at the capital. Every one has been awaiting the rrival of ex-Governor Mellett, who came in on last evening's train. He is one of Taylor's bondsmen. He wired from Lafay. ette. Ind., that he would be here last night and not to begin suit on the bonds as he would turn over everything to the state. As Lafayette is the home of Taylor's father it is supposed that Mellett would have a proposition from the bondsmen for some sort of a settlement. This is not true. He comes simply as an individual and is unable to throw any direct light on the situation. He gives some information, however, which has changed the theory on which the people here have been proceeding, namely, that Taylor has been collecting every cent of available cash in order to pinch the state and force a compromise. The ex-governor has had some intimate business relations with Taylor, and on Thursday last went to Chicago to meet him. Taylor had left the day before, however, and though Mellett searched for him two days, he could get no trace of him. He then went to Layfayette and discovered that Taylor was short, so that his friends were unable to help him out, and that the defaulwas inevitable. Mellett was in Chicago December 12th, and met Taylor there. Th latter was apparently in confidence with a number of his friends and bondsmen and with Leppelman, whose bank at Gettysburg falled three months ago, and through that came Taylor's ruin. TWO BAD ONES DIE AT CHATTANOOGA They Murdered an Old Saloon Keeper for His Money.

ONE OF THEM CURSED THE SHERIFF

He Declared That He Would Come Back to "Haunt" Every sone Who Was Connected with His Execution.

Chattanooga, Tenn., January 11 .- (Special.) At 8 o'clock this morning Buddy Wooden and George Mapp, the murderers of Saloon Keeper Ross, of Montgomery avenue, were hanged in the county jail in the presence of only the deputies, a priest, doctors and newspaper representatives. The hanging was one of the most perfect in point of arrangements and detail ever witnessed in he south. Notwithstanding the efforts of Sheriff Hyde to send the men to a speedy death, they both strangled horribly drop fell. but even after the breaking of his neck he struggled and made desperate efforts to reach the rope. His hands were firmly handcuffed and he could do no more than nove them about three inches. On the fold Wooden was pale, turning ashy at the sight of the ropes.

Mapp, on the other hand, refused to see a clergyman and cursed terribly. He had drawn a sketch of a skeleton before going to the gallows and written underneath it:
"I told you I'd haunt you." This he gave to Sheriff Hyde in the presence of the crowd. On the gallows he cursed every one who had anything to do with the conviction and hanging and said he would meet them all in hell and that while they lived he would haunt them.

When the signal was given to the six deputies who stood at a table in which deputies who stood at a table in which were stops for each, Mapp stiffened his neck and when the stops were drawn fell heavily. The fact that he stiffened against the fall prevented the breaking of his neck, and he struggied for ten minutes. At the end of a half hour the bodies were cut down and taken to the undertaking establishment of a negro on Chestnut street, where they were exhibited for an admission fee of 5 cents. As soon as Chief Hill heard of the facts he stopped the proceedings and arrested the undertaker, charging his with conducting a museum without license. Both of the bodies will be disposed of tomorrow. Wooden having adopted the Catholic faith will be buried in the Mount Olivet cemetery here. Mapp will be sent to his parents in Montgomery, Ala.

Deliberately Planned.

On the night of December 17, 1892, the residents of the business portion of Montgomery avenue were startled by four pistol shots fired in rapid succession apparently in the saloon owned by Marion Ross, an old man who had been in the liquor business in Chattanora. Tor were the ness in Chattanooga for years. In a few minutes the saloon was crowded with men, who were horrified to find the body of the who were normed to find the body of the aged salconist lying on the floor, his hend literally shot to pieces. There was no clue to the man or men who committed the atrocious murder. On Monday night, two days after the murder, Detective Brock arrested Buddy Wooden on the charge of burglary. At the time of his arrest on this charge Wooden was sleeping with an-

In the meantime Wooden had been tried In the meantime wooden had been tried on the burglary charge, found guilty and sentenced to serve a term in the county workhouse, where he was removed with Dillard, who was tried and convicted at the same court. A workhouse guard named Morgan was notified to watch Wooden named Morgan was notified to watch Wooden and to keep the two men together as much as possible. In two weeks the guard sent word to the detective to the effect that the prisoner was about ready to tell what he knew about the killing of Ross. Accordingly the officer, accompanied by Holt, went to the workhouse and secured an interview with Wooden, the substance of which were as follows:

it. George said they would have to hold up some one and rob as many as necessary to secure the coveted amount of money. Both then got their pistols—and left the house, going by a roundabout way to the saloon of Mr. Ross.

When they reached the saloon they found several men sitting by the stove, and Wooden begged his accomplice not to rob the place until the men had gone. Accordingly the two went away, returning later to find the saloon empty, with the exception irgly the two went away, returning later to find the saloon empty, with the exception of the proprietor, who was sitting by the stove. Both want in and Mapp covered the old man with his pistol, slapping him in the face as he did so, and remarking: "Don't get up. We don't wan't you, but your money." At the slap the old man attempted to rise from his chair and Mapp shot him. Then Wooden shot, Mapp shot again, Wooden shot, and the two ran out the front door, and by a circultous route reached the home of Wooden's aunt, where they hid until the day Wooden was arrested on the burglary charge.

Then to find Mapp. Brock, to whom belongs all the credit for the conviction of the murderers, heard that he had gone to Georgia, and went to that state in search of him. Chicago, but had left for Sioux City. Chief of Police Mitchell at once wrote to the chief at that place asking that Mapp be arrested should he make his appearance, and on June 13, 1885, a telegram was received stating that the man wanted had been arrested and was being held to await the action of the Chatanooga authorities. Brock at once left for Sioux City, and on June 24th returned with his prisoner, who gave him considerable trouble on the way here.

Besides the trips mentioned, Brock traveled a distance of 4,000 miles in his work on the case.

Wooden and Mapp were never given the beneft of a preliminary hearing, the grand jury having returned a true bill against them before their capture. In the fall of 1882 Wooden was tried and convicted, and in May of 1894 Mapp was convicted and both were sentenced to death on the gallows. Both cases were appealed to the supreme court and in October the decision of the lower court was sustained and the prisoners were sentenced to hang on December 3, 1894. EXECUTION AT SYLVANIA.

Oliver's Murderer Pays the Penalty on the Gallows. Sylvania, Ga., January 11.-(Special.)-Henry Archer was hanged here today for the murder of John Jackson. The crime for which Henry Archer was executed was one of the most horrible ever perpetrated in this county. Mr. John Jackson, a young merchant of Oliver, in this county, while asleep in his bedroom above his store, was murdered on the night of May 15th, last. His head was crushed in with a blacksmith's hammer, and he was stabbed in the temple with a knife. The hammer was found upon the floor, with the guilty blood stains upon it. His trunk had been rifled and about $40 in money stolen. His hammerless pistol, which he usually kept under his pillow, was also gone.

The whole county was shocked at the awful crime, for Mr. Jackson was a popular and highly esteemed young man. A number of parties were arrested and then turned loose, no evidence being found against them. Notable among these was a wandering piano tuner, named Scarff, who happened to be in Oliver at the time, and who was strongly suspected of com-plicity in the crime. Scarff was arrested three times, but nothing was ever proved against him, and at the last term of the superior court he got his final release Several weeks after the murder, however, a negro in Bulloch county carried a pistol to Mr. C. S. Hill, telling him that the negro Henry Archer, who lived in Oliver, had given it to him. The pistol answered to the description of the one owned by the murdered man, so Mr. Hill carried it over murdered man, so Mr. Hill carried it over to Oliver; and this was the first clue that pointed toward Archer. He was arrested and put in jail, and at the last November term of the superior court was convicted. It was proved that he had in his possession, immediately after the murder, about the der, and the pistol was identified as the one which belonged to Mr. Jackson. These and other equally strong links of evidence convinced the jury, and all who heard them, that Archer was the guilty man. After an able defense by council appointed by the court, he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. He never ceased to assert' his innocence from the time of his capture until he was taken to the gallows.

Badly Injured. Jacksonville, Fla., January 11.—(Special.) Sister Mary Ann, of St. Joseph's convent, was seriously injured on upper Main street this morning in a runaway accident. For many years Sister Mary Ann has been accustomed to go about the city on her by a steady-going nag, behind which she felt perfectly safe, in spite of her ad-vanced age. This morning, a little after 9 o'clock, she drove briskly down Main street. A trolly car came whizzing by and frightened her horse. He backed against the curb and tipped the phaeton over throwing Sister Mary Ann out. The wheel passed over her body, and the frightened horse stepped on her back as she lay on her face. ALL GAMES CLOSED

Knoxville Is Free from Gamblers for the First Time in Years.

PARSON JONES STARTED THE CRUSADE

The Chief of Police Got in the Way Was Bun Over-A Judge Aided the Parson.

Knoxville, Tenn., January 11 .- (Special.)not a single gambling place open within the city limits of Knoxville, and at the two public places in town where the "gams" used to congregate in numbers, not one sport can be seen. In their slang, they say they have been "jonsed," and a new word is coined in East Tennessee.

The southern Parkhurst who has wrought all this change is the Rev. J. S. Jones, the young pastor of an obscure Methodist church in the northside. His sermons at-tracted little attention at first; but each Sunday, they gained vigor, and a Journal reporter, dropping in one night, printed his discourse almost verbatim. The next day there was a sensation, and the ministers of the city assembled in hot haste.

The next sermon wrought the organization of the Law and Order League, composed of prominent citizens. In an evil posed of prominent citizens, In an evil moment, the chief of police answered some off his strictures in an interview. Mr. Jones immediately excoriated the chief and offered to give him evidence upon which

Then the criminal court met, and a new judge charged the grand jury in a way the "gams" had not expected, saying that if the police raided a gambling house, having a reputation as such, and were compelled to break down 'ron gates, though the gamblers present might not be playing, such evidence, under the law, was sufficient to frame an indictment that would be. Public attention was momentarily taken away from the Rev. Mr. Jones by this, but a good thing came his way. As the story runs, the name of a young man-about-town, who had fed the tigers with $10,000 in the last two or three years, reached his ears. Satisfying himself that the report was credible, he had the young man introduced to the grand jury, and in a few hours twenty-five indictments had been found, and every "sure-thing" man in town was arrested and balled. Those who were in dicted, but not arrested, had fled the city. Under a curious law of Yennessee, play-ing poker, keno, faro and roulette is a felony. During the last three years, therefore "craps" has been all the go, and that is punishable only as a nisdemeanor.

The best citizens of Knoxville are rejoiced over the result, as gambling had become a terrible evil here. More 'han twenty different defalcations and falls of trusted clerks have been known to the initiated, the defalcations running from $5,000 down, besides the wasting of one ortune of $30,000 by a young man whose divorced wife now lives to Atlanta. At one time, in this city of 45,000 people, at least ten big "crap" games were running in full blast, and traveling men were used to say-ing that there was more "crap-shooting" in Knoxville in proportion to its size than in any city in the south.

The Rev. Mr. Jones has announced his to tackle the social evil within the next two or three weeks.

Under the rules of the house this was private bill day and on motion of Mr. Flood the house resloved itself into committee of the whole to consider bills on the private calendar, for the first time since July 18th, last, and Mr. Tarsney took the chair. Three hours were spent in aa anavailing consideration of a bill that engaged the attention of the body on the day last devoted to the private calendar. It was for the payment of $13,000 for stores and supplies taken from a loyal Tennesseean in the war, as adjudged by the court of claims. The bill elicited discussion of the general policy of congress with respect to other bills and Mr. Bower said that if it was the intention to pass the bill, the sooner it was done the better it would be for the peace of mind of the representatives from the southern states.

Mr. Cockrell, of Texas, said he had no

Mr. Marsh, republican, of Illinois, replied most vigorously to this question. FUSIONISTS IN THE SADDLE.

Raleigh, N. C., January II.—(Special.)—
The fusionists in the senate today carried through their resolution placing in the hands of a committee of three the appointment of all senate committees. The resolution named a republican and a populist as members of the committee and allowed Lieutenant Governor Doughton the poor privilege of naming the third member of the committee. The democratic senators, who are only five in number, fought this resolution, but vainly, the senators, who are only five in number, fought this resolution, but vainly, the forty fusionists voting solidly for it. The fusionists also railroaded through the senate without even a reference to a committee, and despite democratic protests, a bill repealing the act of the last legislature which directed the secretary of state to award the public printing to the lowest bidder. The democrats voted against this bill. The fusionists will revive the office of public printer and it will be the reward of some of their people for campaign services. Peebles, democrat, offered a resolution in the house calling on sanators and representatives in congress to do all in their power to secure the passage of a free coinage bill at a ratio of 16 to 1; also to secure a more equal distribution of the circulating medium, and also the passage of a bill to permit state banks of issue. The petition was signed by nearly all of the lawyers of Duchess county. Judge Barnard retired from the bench under the seventieth year limit a year ago. Under the new legislation the governor may permit any justice so retired to resume work in the supreme court. Accompanying the petition was the con-sent of Justice Barnard to return to work on the supreme court bench. Governor Morton at once granted the request con-tained in the petition and has assigned Justice Barnard to a special term which is to be held on Saturday of each week at Poughkeepsie, and has restored to him all his functions so that he may perform all of the duties of a supreme court justice. Judge Barnard retired on January 1, 1894, and had served nine years of his fourteenand had served nine years of his fourteen-year term. He could have drawn his ju-dicial pension for the remaining years and have remained inactive, and could not have been assigned to duty until he consented to do so. He preferred, however, to return to the bench and render service for the com-pensation which the constitution gives him.

Wiggins was given a fair trial and impartial hearing, and had able counsel to represent him. His lawyers were appointed by the court. There never has been a case tried in Augusta which has attracted so much attention and excited so much interest, and there is no case in the criminal

He declared that the officers in doing so not only vio-lated the state law, but the police regulations as well. With regard to the killing of Davis Mr. Foster claimed that Wiggins was not guilty of any crime whatever. During Mr. Foster's argument the broken-hearted widow of Joe Murray entered the room, accompanied by four of her father-less children. Mrs. Murray was attired in deepest mourning. She and her children wept very effectively. A score or more of ladies were present to hear the speeches. In closing, Mr. Foster was moved to tears. ladies were present to hear the spectness. Mr. Foster was moved to tears. He said that though he was not a well man he had worked hard for a week without a fee of any kind, simply to aid the jury to reach a verdict according to law and devoid of partiality or prejudise on account of color. Mr. Foster spoke an hour yesterday afternoon and from 9:30 o'clock this morning until 12:15 o'clock.

Mr. Wright Concludes. Mr. Boykin Wright began his address at 12:25 o'clock. Every one was on the tiptoe of expectation to hear him as it was generbelieved that his would be "the" speech the case. They were not disappointed.
Wright began by paying a beautiful tribute to the lawyers of the def heir magnificent showing in behalf of the without fee, and simply to upbrisoner, without ree, and simply of ap-hold law and society. Since the strong arm of the courts and of authority had been thrown around Wiggins in such perfect manner, he was prouder of Augusta than ever, and now had a more passionate n law and its impartiality than at er time in his career. Mr. Wright any other which has career and regre-said he would not appeal to passion or pre-judice. If the state did not convince the jury of the defendant's guilt; if the state He not make out a case of murder-murder most foul-murder without cause-murder from beginning to end-then the fault would be somewhere else, and not in the facts of the case. He said the people of Augusta did not look to magistrates and stables for protection of life and prop-y. They had a separate line of dutythe serving of distress and peace warrants among quarrelsome negro men and women.

among quarrelsome negro men and women. The police are expected to protect us, to make safe our lives and property. He contended that a policeman or even a private citizen had the right to arrest a felon fleeing from justice even without a warrant. Uniform and brass buttons and the badge of the policeman are the only warrant the law requires when a fugitive from justice is guilty of a felony. Mr. Wright concluded his argument at 5:15 o'clock.

Judge Calloway then delivered his charge to the jury, and it was declared by lawyers to be the ablest, clearest and most complete charge they ever heard delivered from a bench. At 6:12 o'clock the jury retired and at 7:40 o'clock returned with a verdict of guilty. CONFLICTING TESTIMONY. Witnesses in the Hinkle Trial Con-

Americus, Ga., Januar, 11.-(Special.)-In the closing of the state's evidence in the Hinkle case, a witness not put up in the former trial, gave some pointed testimony. He was Simon Clark, a colored mechanic, working at Wheatly's shop on North Jackson street. He testified that he was going home on the evening of the tragedy and had passed the public library some fifty feet from the Hinkle office when the firing began. The first witness for the defense was Chief of Police Lamar, who testified regarding the arrest of the Hinkles, after the shooting. He and Officer Wheeler reached the Hinkle office about the same time.

Lamar asked Dr. J. B. Hinkle who did the shooting to which he refuled: "He the shooting, to which he replied:

Contractors Say That Macon's Engineer Does Not Know His Business.

HE SAYS HE TAUGHT THEM THEIRS

An Investigation Is On - Wilcox States That the Contractors Offered Him a Job at $1,800 a Year.

Macon, Ga., January 11 .- (Special.)-The sewer committee of the city council, com-posed of B. W. Sperry, chairman, Morris Happ, Sam Aitmayer, T. E. Ryais, C. I. Peavy, held their first meeting last night to consider the charges brought against City Engineer Wilcox by Gaboury & No-ble, the sawer contractors Mayor, Harne ble, the sewer contractors. Mayor Horne was also in attendance. The committee did nothing definite except to formulate a plan of procedure. The investigation will, no doubt, be very thorough.

The contractors charge that the city engineer is tyrannical, incompetent, etc. Last night the engineer submitted a report or statement to the committee which was a re-view of the whole situation. Some portions of the engineer's communication were very caustic, and he falked as straight to the point as the contractors did in their writ-ten grievances to the mayor and council. In answer to the charge of incompetence the engineer says, among other things, that he has taught Gaboury & Noble all they know about building sewers, and if he is incompetent, it is very singular that Ga-boury & Noble should have offered him $9,600 if he would give up his position as city engineer and take charge of their their offer, though his salary as city engineer was only $1,800 per annum. The offer was made him last year, soon after Mr George Dole Wadley retired as general superintendent of sewer construction and prior to the selection of Mr. J. N. Haz-

One Commission Not Sent.

Today Ordinary Wiley received from the state executive department at Atlanta the commission of all the state and county officers elected on January 2d, for the ensuing year, except the commission of Mr. C. B Massenburg, who was elected county treas-urer, an office that has been abolished by special act of the legislature. The commission was not signed and sent by the gov nor, doubtless because he had been noti fled by the county commissioners that a onstitutional question was involved and he was requested not to sign the commis-sion. The next step in the matter will prob-ably be this: Massenburg will offer his bond to the county commissioners for approval and they will decline to do so Massenburg will then apply to the judge of the superior court for a mandamus com-pelling the commissioners to approve the bond. The entire matter will then come up for legal decision and will not end short of the supreme court.

They Will Sell.

Messrs. J. L. Hardeman, R. A. Nisbet and T. B. Gresham have been appointed a commission to sell the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad. It has been inquired whether or not Judge Hardeman would continue a commissioner now that he has gone on the bench, and, if not, who would be appointed in his place. It is understood that the parties at interest importuned Mr. Hardeman just before he became judge of the Macon circuit not to resign the commissionership as it would in no wise conthe Macon circuit not to resign the com-missionership as it would in no wise con-flict with his judicial duties, and he ac-cordingly consented to remain on the com-mission. The third day's session of the King's Daughters' state convention commenced this morning at 9:30 o'clock. Mrs. J. A. Thomas, president, delivered a very inter-esting address. Mrs. Thomas introduced he following resolution, which was unanimously and enthusiastically passed;
"Resolved, That the King's Daughters'

Among the main features of the afternoon were addresses by Rev. Dr. Monk, con, and Miss Manning, of Forsyth. Tonight the association was tendered a reception by the Epworth League of Mulberry Street Methodist church. Among the excellent addresses of the convention were those of Miss E. F. Miss Mary Lizzie Leverett arrived in Macon last night from Oswego, Kans. She was notified of the illness of her father, Hon. Frank Leverett, and hoped that she would reach here before he died, but she arrived too late. Miss Leverett is a very talented young lady, and holds an important position as teacher in one of the leading educational institutions of Kansas. Today, in the United States court, Receiver N. E. Harris, of the Macon and Northern road, filed his report of the receipts and disbursements of the line for the months of November and December. The remains of Mr. Frank Leverett were carried this morning to Eatonton for burial his afternoon. They were accompanied by a large number of mourners from Macon.

The retail liquor men are much disturbed today over the report that the city council at its meeting next Tuesday night will raise the license from $100 to $250. Several licenses have already been issued at $100, and the liquor men say it will be illegal for the council to make them now pay an increased license. If necessary, counsel will be employed to fight the case.

South Carolina's Exhibit Will Be of Great Variety.

There can no longer be any manner of double that South Carolina is going to have a splendid exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition, which will be opened in Atlanta in September next. The rement originated here in Charleston and is being pushed by Charleston mon, but the exhibit which is to be made will be representative of the whole state, her manufactories, her products and her industries Wherever the subject has been mentioned it has been greeted with enthusiasm and some ment of the state's business life have signified to their willingness to identify themselves with the undertaking. The Charleston gentlemen appointed by the Young Men's Business League of this city as an ous letters from all quarters of the state that they will have no trouble in making an South Carolina.

Everybody, in fact, seems to be fully alive to the importance of the undertaking and imbued with a determination that the old state shall this time be rightly represented before the multitude of visitors who are expected to visit the great exposition At none of the great expositions of recent years has South Carolina been able to suita-bly advertise herself and her resources and when she does so it is going to prove a revelation to thousands of people who have hunted in vain for her exhibition on former occasions.

It is true that the exhibit which she made at the world's Columbian fair was a gem in its way, but then it was so small that it was lost in the multitudinous displays made by other states and nations. Thousands of people who attended the fair never saw it at all, and even patriotic Carolinians who insisted when finding and see linians who insisted upon finding and see-ing it sometimes had a good hunt for it. It is going to be different this time. The exhibit is not only going to be in the picture, but it is going to be a picture in it-self. Plenty of space is going to be se-cured and the committee is going to fill every foot of it with something which will arrest and hold the eye of every one who sees it. Arrangements are already making to prepare a catalogue of the exhibit, and every department is going to be assigned to a committee with some well-known and thoroughly competent man at the head of it. Among the exhibits for which some provision has already been made and regarding. on has already been made and regarding the preparation of which some preliminary work has been done are those of the state's rice, cotton, tobacco and phosphate industries. South Carolina has larger cotton mill interests than any other state in the south, and this fact will be brought out by a splendid exhibit, which her mill men

Charleston and the neighboring coast country, of course, has the largest phosphate interest in the world, and this department of the exhibit will receive special attention and will be of particular interest. The granite and stone quarries of the state will be requested to participate in the display, and there is no doubt that they will comply. A special committee will be appointed to see that suitable and complete exhibits of the state's mineral resources are prepared. These are but a few suggestions as to what the exhibits will contain. In these departments some work has already been done, but there will be added a number of important and attractive features as time goes on.

The exhibitions which North Carolina material advantage to that state, and as a lirect result of her world's fair exhibit r merous colonies of foreigners have been at merous colonies of foreigners have been attracted to her borders, and her people have learned that it pays to have the resources of their state well represented upon the occasion of those great gatherings. Every state that has ever tried it recognizes this fact. The enterprising men of Charleston are fully convinced of it, too, and they are determined that another occasion of putting the old city in a proper light before the world shall not be allowed to glide by unimproved.

Carrollton, Miss., January 11.—As the east-ound passenger train, No. 71, in charge of Engineer Lindsy and Conductor Tom A. Slaughter, was pulling out from Indianola, a rapidly growing town just forty-five miles west of this place, a bold and dastardly at-tempt was made to flag, and, no doubt, to rob it, by an unknown number of desperate novices; but Engineer Lindsy quickly gathered in the situation, and throwing the throttle of his engine wide open, he sped by the inexperienced bandits at a rapid advance on schedule time. However, fol-lowing the example of the recently captured. Pantherburn bandits, they fired a volley at the passenger coaches, and one shot made a slight flesh would on the neck of Mr. Charles H. Ewing, who is engaged with Chester A. Pond, of Moorehead. Several bricks were thrown into the negro coaches, and one colored man sustained quite a pain ful wound. The doors of the express car were also bombarded, but the robbers' plans were easily thwarted by a watchful en-gineer, who should be congratulated upon his presence of mind.

Jacksonville, Fla., January 11.-(Spe At today's session of the Florida Methodist conference a heated discussion was pre cipitated and continued for two or thre hours by the report of the committee the Florida Conference Orphans' Home which recommended the acceptance of an offer made by Rev. Dr. Munch, of the north Georgia conference, in behalf of his wife. This proposition is to donate to the conference for an orphan's home a tract of forty-four acres of land at Archer, in Levy coun. ty, with a house on it that cost $5,600, but the conference must pay to the donor $1,600 within ninety days, because this sum represents the cost of recent improvements for which the donor desires to be reimbursed. Among the conditions to be named in the deed is one that none of the proceeds derived from the products of the land shall ever be used for buying intoxicating liquors. Another is that no liquors shall be used on the place, and still another is that no tobacco shall be raised on the land or used on the premises. The conference objected to being hampered with such conditions and was on the point of rejecting the offer entirely, when a motion to refer the whole matter back to the committee was carried. ATLANTA, GA., January 12, 1895.

An Extra Session Necessary. It seems certain that the democratic boobies and incapables will be unable to ecomplish anything in the way of financial reform, and that the president will have to call the republican congress in extra session. Even if the house were able to agree to any measure of reform promising temporary relief it would be blocked in the senate. There is no hope, however, that the house can agree to anything. The successful repudiation of the democratic platform, which was accomplished when the purchasing clause of the Sherman act was unconditionally repealed, seems to have paralyzed the energies of the most enthusiastic democrats in that body. An extra session being a foregone conclusion, therefore, it is a pity that it cannot be held at once, to the end that a remedy of some sort may be put into operation at once. At the very least the republican party will be compelled to develop its policy somewhat earlier than ministration and demanded a change is usually the case, and then the country will know what to expect from it The most that we can hope for under the circumstances is that the organization, true to its record, will demonstrate that its energy and activity are worse for the people than the incapacity displayed by the democrats.

There is little reason to doubt that the leaders of the republican party are still owned by the money power. They are responsible for the demonetization of silver and for every piece of legisla tion looking to the contraction of the currency and the cutting off of the money supply. Is it probable that they have suddenly become honest, or tha they lean more sympathetically towards the people? We do not think so. Nevertheless, if the republicans have a remedy that will relieve the people, let them ne forward and propose it and put it in operation. The business interests of the country cannot possibly be worsted after their experience with the results of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law. But it is proper that the what they can do. The people have kicked the democratic congress out and elected republicans to carry on their legislation. The president should, therefore, give the republicans the earliest opportunity to apply their remedies.

This much is certain, even before the republican congress assembles-namely, that no matter what measure of financia relief the leaders may introduce none can pass that does not provide for the coinage of silver. In the next senate there will be fourteen republicans who will place silver above their party, and they will not respond to any party demand for their vote in favor of any measure that fails to provide for the unlimited coinage of silver.

What chance such a measure would have at the white house we cannot say. It would probably meet with a promp veto, unless the condition of the country has convinced Mr. Cleveland that his financial views are not infallible. But any measure that does not provide for silver coinage will have less chance in the next congress than it has in the present body of boobies and incapables The situation, in brief, is this: The silver men will be stronger in the republican congress than they are in this. owing to accessions in the senate. They will be strong enough to control legislation, and they will employ that power in the interests of the people.

But no matter what the republican congress can do or may do, it is the duty of the president to call it together so that it will assemble immediately after the adjournment of the present congregation of incapables, with its manifestations of paresis and boobyism. The republican congress may be able to do something. It can do no worse than the present congress has done. It may do a great deal better.

It is certain that the people do not expect the republican congress to give them any substantial financial relief, and if any relief should come from that direction it would come in the nature of an agreeable surprise. Anything is better than the present condition.

A Step Well Taken.

Governor Atkinson cannot be too warmly commended for the stand he has taken in the effort to bring to justice the Jasper county lynchers.

There is not a more outrageous case of mob violence on record than that to which the governor has officially called the attention of Judge Hart, who has ordered a special term of the court for the purpose of endeavoring to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Jasper county lynching was absolutely inexcusable. The victim was literally dragged from the court by a mob after he had been sentenced to death, and the crime for which he was prought to immediate trial would have been explated on the gallows, and the good name of the county saved, if mob olence had not outraged the law.

It now remains to be seen whether the grand jury of Jasper county will go vigorously to work to punish the men who are guilty of this crime against the state and this violation of the good name and record of Jasper county. The rovernor has taken vigorous steps in the matter and has requested the attorney general of the state to assist the colicitor general in the prosecution. The reply of Judge Hart to the governor's etter is eminently satisfactory and reflects credit on this sterling officer, whose recent promotion to the bench evoked such hearty approval from all parts of the state. There is not an abler nor a more conscientious judge than Judge John C. Hart, and the vigor with which he has gone at the work of ferreting out the offenders in this case is characteristic of the man.

Now, that the governor and the judge have taken active steps in the matter let the grand jury of Jasper county and the good people of that county do their duty and make an example of these lynchers, whose conduct should be rebuked by every law-abiding citizen in the state. They should be brought to justice and be made to serve as an example to demonstrate to other mobs that the courts of Georgia shall at least be inviolable against such barbarous attacks. We congratulate the governor for the step he has taken; we congratulate the brave judge of the Ocmulgee circuit, and we hope to be able to congratulate the grand jury and the good people of Jasper county that the efforts in behalf of the defense of the sanctity of our courts shall not be unavailing.

A Defect in Our System. One of the greatest defects in our sys em of government is the fallure of its framers to make provision for carrying out the will of the people without up necessary delay. In England, when the administration is defeated, it retires from office, and a new administration at once proceeds to execute the will of the majority. But in this country it is possible for an administration to successfully oppose the wishes of the majority for at least two years. In the recent general elections the people, by an overwhelming vote condemned the policy of the present ad-Yet, under our system, the old congres continues to do business at the sam old stand, while the same administrative officials are in charge. Not until March will the new congress have any power and if an extra session is not called will not get to work until next Decem ber-more than a year after it was elected.

We cannot very well reduce the presi dential term to two years, for it is al ready short enough, but it would be a good thing to amend our constitution so as to bring a new congress on deck as soon as elected. As matters now stand the members of the present congress who were defeated in November will be able, if so disposed to do considerable mischief until March and thus hamper and throw obstacle in the way of their successors, who really represent the people, while the holding over members most assuredly represent nothing but themselves and repudiated minority. In an editorial mewhat on this line The Charlotte Observer says: Extra sessions are not bad things. If Mr.

Cleveland had convened the fifty-third congress the day he was inaugurated an when the members of that congress were from their elections and eager to de work, something substantial would doubt-less have been accomplished and in a reasonable time. The panic might have been averted and a new and better tariff bill been in full operation a year ago. Too much time elapses between the election of a con-gress and its first sitting-full thirteen yearthy. May almost forces that what they were onths. Men almost forget what they wer elected for and are subject to increasing in difference about doing it. In the presen instance the easy and natural solution of the difficulties with which President Cleve land is soon to be left otherwise to wrestle alone, is an extra session of congress. Le the republicans assume the responsibilities to which they were elected and for which they are so eager. They know exactly what is needed to be done to benefit the health of the treasury and to restore prosperity to the country, and they should be given the opportunity to do it. This is exactly right, as the constitution now stands, but it would be better to amend it and provide that the active life of a new congress shall begin immediately after its election.

A Timely Book. The Century Company has just published a handsome and interesting volume entitled "Municipal Government in Great Britain," by Albert Shaw, editor of The Review of Reviews.

The author states in his preface that students of the municipal problem will find that Europe affords a simpler and a more satisfactory field of inquiry than the United States, because in Europe each country has worked out for itse or borrowed from a neighboring country a practicable system of municipal organization, and the system is strong enough and elastic enough to endure the double test of a marvelous new growth of city population and a fast increasing list of administrative undertakings. In American municipalties there is less logical system and guiding principle than will be found in Europe, and we make s many capricious changes that our people have formed no definite municipal ideas, and they, therefore, proceed haltingly in the work of reform. We make such fre quent and arbitrary changes that we have not learned what the world regards as a sound municipal constitution nor have we decided to what positive tasks and public services a municipal government may wisely apply itself. Dr. Shaw's idea is that we should gain all possible enlightenment from the experience of others who have been dealing with kindred problems and have found solutions that are satisfactory under their own circumstances. The present volume gives such an account of the working of municipal institutions in Great Britain as will supply the information most needed by American readers and a second volume will treat of mu

of continental Europe.

The book now before us contains the following chapters: "The Growth and roblems of Modern Cities," "The Rise of British Towns, the Reform Acts and the Municipal Codes;" "The British System in Operation," "A Study of Glas-"Manchester's Municipal Activities," "Birmingham: Its Civic Life and Expansion:" "Social Activities of British Towns," "The Government of London," "Metropolitan Tasks and Prob lems." lems." The appendices contain "The English Municipal Code," "The London Progressive) Platform" and "The Unification of London"

It would profit every reader of The Constitution who feels any interest in municipal matters to get this book and study it, The government of a British city may not be in all respects just what an American city needs, but it will help us to study the methods of older communities in dealing with local taxation, police and sanitary matters, relief of the poor, control of the liquor traffic, water, park, paving, lighting, transportation and tenement systems and other questions which enter into the active life of city. Dr. Shaw's thoughtful and timely work contains so much that is suggestive and valuable that it will be cordially welcomed, just now, when in our largest and smallest cities municipal problems are commanding more attention than usual. It is a book that can be utilized by municipal reformers everywhere.

The Policy of France.

Congressman Hendrix, of Brooklyn, who is a gold monometallist, made a speech against the Carlisle bill the other day in which he inadvertently used an argument that has often been advanced by the democrats. He thus described the redemption policy of the Bank of France:

to have a note of that bank cashed, if it is of small amount and you are an American traveler, they will be very glad, indeed, to hand over the counter the few napoleons which you require, but if you send in a large amount of notes and ask for gold they will simply tell you that the rules of the Bank of France forbid them to give ou more than 5 per cent of the am gold, and they will pay you the rest in silver. The Bank of France and the Bank of dermany both become great bullion dealers under that system, while the treasury of the United States, a great, free-handed country, shovels it out to anybody who comes along with a demand note.

Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa-Does the action of the Bank of France, which you have just described, refusing to pay more than 5 per cent in gold, impair the credit of the Mr. Hendrix-No, sir; it does not impair the credit of the bank.

the credit of the bank.

Mr. Hepburn—Then would the credit of the United States be impaired if the secre-tary of the treasury should exercise his discretion and pay silver instead of gold when gentlemen come trying to deplete the treasury of its gold? Mr. Hendrix-F think it would, sir; very reatly at this time

Hepburn-Why?
Hendrix-Simply because of the general distrust of the ability of the United States government to make a gold payment in response to a demand upon it. This statement attracts the attention of the Springfield Republican, a paper whose editor has the best intentions in the world, but who seems to be unable to recognize a financial truth when he neets it in the road. This is not due to his lack of intelligence, but to the overpowering pressure of his environment He believes that gold lias intrinsic value, and he thinks it is the duty of a gov ernment to maintain "parity" between its various forms of currency. There are symptoms, nevertheless, that the editor is beginning to perceive dimly that parity cannot be long maintained when the government permits its credit ors to discriminate against all forms of currency except that which is most valuable in other countries. Commenting on the colloquy which we have quoted,

The Republican says: France, a country of m ation than the United States, has nearly 5700,000,000 of legal tender silver afloat, gainst some $550,000,000 in the United States. It was coined at the ration of 151/2 to 1 and hence is more depreciated as compared with gold than our silver money. But it appears to be unnecessary for the bank of France to redeem its notes entirely, or in anything like a reasonable percentage, in gold on demand, to maintain the parity of the two metals. Jones and Stewart and other silver men have often urged this point and de-manded that the United States government at least refuse eo redeem the greenback and trasury notes entirely in gold, but pa out, say, 50 per cent in gold and the rest

Probably if the government had adopted uch a rule fourteen years ago or seven of five years ago, when popular confidence was not disturbed and the treasury was in a strong position, it might now adhere to the strong position, it might now adhere to the rule without trouble and with such incon-venience to the exporters of the metal at New York as to compel the banks there to supply some of the gold for export. But it would of course be quite another matter to put such a rule in force, when the treasury is so weak in its reserves and distrusi has been awakened. We should be apt to see a premium on gold appear as a result of this change in redemption policy at such a time. The fillberal and short-sighted course of the New York banks, however, may force the government in the end to adopt so risky a plan as an alternative to the immediate danger of the entire disap pearance of the treasury gold.

The Republican should bear in mind that the government never did surren der its discretion until August, 1892, and there was never any hint that such a surrender would be made until Charles Foster announced it at a bankers' ban quet in New York city in November. 1891. When John Sherman was secre tary he redeemed gold certificates with silver, and gave silver certificates for deposits of gold. Goldbug as he was, he never permitted any creditor of the government to discriminate between gold and silver coin.

When Mr. Carlisle took charge of the ireasury he announced to the New York bankers that the notes of 1800 would be redeemed in silver at the pleasure of the government. The banks, blind as bats to everything except their own greed. made a great outcry and appealed to Mr. Cleveland, who caused it to be announced that the notes would be reeemed in gold. From that moment the raid on the treasury began in earnest, and reason and common sense have been banished from the management of

As to redeeming the notes in silver at this time, or changing the future policy announced by Mr. Cleveland, that is a horse of another color. There is

use the terms of the law have not been complied with. The silver with which the notes should be redeemed has been, contrary to the express mandate of the Sherman act, left in the form of ullion, and in that shape it is worth no nore to the treasury or to the people for netary purposes than pig iron.

We trust The Republican admires the policy that has wrecked the prosperity of the country. It is purely mugwumpian in its conception and execution. The mugwumps have toadled to Mr. Cleveland until he has come to believe that he is a demigod in all political and financial matters, and that his lightest opinion is worth more than the experience of the world.

Give Us Fast Mails.

When the postal mail service der discussion in the house the other day a letter was read from Editor Rose water, of The Omaha Bee, opposing the fast mail service which leaves Chicago on its westward flight at 3 o'clock in the evening.

Editor Rosewater made the point that this system brought the Chicago papers into Omaha before his own paper could get into circulation. He opposed the fast mail because it injured him. The Omaha editor's complaint simply excited amusement, and Representative Hopkins smashed it when he said that the world could not return to savagery to gratify Rosewater and extend the circu lation of The Bee. He thought that newspapers were among heaven's greatest blessings and they could not get into Nebraska too quickly.

In such a matter it would be unjust to the public to deprive it of a great convenience in order to benefit one particular interest. From another point of view Editor Rosewater's complaint ridiculous. To meet the competition of the Chicago papers he should make his own paper their equal.

The Constitution is an earnest cate of the extension of the fast mail service. We want to see the Chicago papers sold on our streets on the day o their publication, if possible, and we want the other outside papers to get here as soon as possible. Our people will get numerous benefits from fast mails. Letters, as well as papers, will be rushed through, business will be stimulated and distant sections will be brought into closer relations.

The Cause of Low Prices.

The New Orleans Picayune thinks that the newspapers and the conventions which have discussed the question have made a mistake in admitting that cotton has fallen in price because of overpro duction. Our contemporary says: If comparison is made between Septem

. 1894, and September 1, 1883, we find that the visible supply of cotton at the former date was 2,005,584 bales, and the visible supp., former date was 2,005,584 baies, at the latter 1,732,705, a difference of only 272,879 bales or barely 13 per cent. During the same time the increased consumption was 2,000,000 bales a year, or 25 per centwice as great as the increase in the visible wice as great as the increase in the visible supply—and yet the price of the staple shrunk $20 a bale. The increase in the visi ble supply does not seem to afford any suffi-cient explanation of this rapid decline. On September 1, 1883, silver stood at 50%d. per ounce in London, and on the same day eleven years later it was 30 5-16d, per ounce very close to the actual decline that has taken place in the price of cotton. The latter staple has not gone down quite as much, but this is probably due to other causes, but the two have decreased so nearly in the same proportion, as well as other products like grain, as to suggest

The Picayune might have gone farther and asserted as a fact that the decline in prices has kept pace with the declinin silver and is caused by the legislation against silver. A recent writer thus summarizes the result:

Thus silver has by legislation been re-luced from $1.32 per ounce, in 1872, to 56 cents per ounce in 1894. at has followed the down-hill push

Gold has been hoisted by legislation. Three men went to market with their roduce in 1872.

One had silver.

One had wheat. Back of these three men were millions f laborers.
The cotton was spun in the loom and woven in the mill The wheat was ground in the mill and baked in the oven The silver was melted in the furnace and ninted in the mint. These three useful citizens now narket, each with the same products Each with the same number of pounds. Each has cost him the same amount of labor. Ask each how his loss will now compare in value with his load in 1872. Ask each one to figure on the difference in of his load then and now Each will tell you that in twenty-two years he has been so hit by legislation that now it takes nearly three times as much of the product of the plantation, of the farm, of the silver mine to pay debts as in 1872. Now, what is the remedy? Restore silver to its former place in our mone tary system and our staple products will again bring good prices. If "my dear Catchings" would save the country, we believe it would be saved. When gold goes to a premium, will the banks be any better off than they are The New York Journal of Commerce ad mits that the banks have been raiding the treasury because Mr. Carlisle wanted to redeem the Sherman notes in gold.

If the government finds it necessary to issue bonds to pay expenses, what is to become of the poor devils who can't issue bonds?

It is not probable that Mr. Carlisle will be a candidate for president next time. The talk about Mr. Cleveland for a third term seems to have reached the middle of the slack wire. There were hundreds of democratic state men to begin with, but there is not on to end with. This is very queer.

They found many birds from the very start, but soon were held up by the owners of the land, who violently protosted against their hunting and their farms, which were posted according to law against trespassers.
They tried to beg permission to hunt on the place, for birds were plentiful there and the sport was fine. But the farmers said they would have them arrested if they continued to shoot game on the plantation. More than this, the owners of the land, armed with rifles, swore they would follow the Atlantians until they were off the plantation and would see to it that

Well, night came on and we had orders to shift about and on and we had orders to shift about and march away on a dead flank in a hurry. The men were silently marching off in the night, passing right along in close reach of the yankees' lines. We were so close to each others' lines we might have heard the yankees breathing, to speak figuratively. It was a dark, cloudy, starless night and I was placed in charge of a great pile of ammunition and ordered to stay there with it to deliver it to Ranse Wright when he came along, as he was expected to follow right along some timeduring the night by that way.

'The hours seemed like years to me. I knew how close I was to the yankees. It was too dark to see them, but they were all over the woods. Scared? Well, I reckon! I could have heard my heart beat a half mile away. The boys' soft tramping died away on the stillness of the night. I was as cheerful as a funeral procession. "Arms and the Man" at Night.
Mr. Mansfield brought his Atlanta engagement to a brilliant close last night with "Arms and the Man," the most delightful satirical comedy that has been produced in recent years.

At the matinee "Beau Brummel" was given to a very large audience.

The chief interest in Mr. Mansfield's engagement centered in "Arms and the Man," and last night's audience was, therefore, one of the most notable in the history of the Grand. The play, which is brilliant in every line, was given a splendid production by Mr. Mansfield and his associates. The central figure is a Swiss officer of the imperturbable English type, a role which, it seems to me, nobody else on the American stage could fill nearly so well as Mr. Mansfield. The play also gives Miss Cameron a real opportunity of showing her ability, and I am sure she charmed everybody.

Pull Text of the Agreement Which Put Stop to the Passenger Rate War. Other News of the Rail.

C. M. Bolton, chief engineer of the Southern railway, came from Washington vesterday to hold a conference with the exposition authorities with respect to the construction of railway terminals on the exposition grounds.

He was in consultation with Chief of Construction Grant Wilkins most of the day, talking over the plans of the Southern Railway Company in the matter informally. Today the third vice president, W. H. Baldwin, will arrive in Atlanta and take up the business formally and with definite purpose for a speedy execution of the spection of the Southern down in the states of Alabama and Mississippi for the past few days and will stop in Atlanta on his way to Washington long enough to get the entire exposition business fixed. It is the purpose of the Southern to first build new spur-tracks from the main line build new spur-tracks from the main line, into, the exposition grounds, leading to the site of the government building. The contractors are hurrying the work up on this particular building and the railroad is anxious to have no delay in the matter. The work of construction will be taken up by the contractors just as soon as they can get the building material on the ground.

to house all the supplies for the western system of the Southern and will be quite a spacious building. Work on the new shops of the Southern at this point will soon be under way and will be pushed forward to a speedy com-pletion. It is the purpose of Mr. Baldwin to increase the capacity of the Atlanta shops more than threefold. He will so enlarge the present shops as to give employment to more than three times the men that are now engaged by the company here. One of the most important items to come

INCREASING ORDERS

Is What the Manufacturers Report, The Week's Business. the state of trade tomorrow Bradst "The second week of the new year brings reports of an increasing volume of orders of substantial goods. Calcago, St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia report of the gradest improvement with increased orders for dry goods, clothing, rubbers, shoes, hardware and woolen dress "At some centers it is too early to judge of the outlook of trade. Travelers in many instances have not all gons out. Western furniture manufacturers are stocking, which has had an influence upon the hard wood western dealers. Iron and steel dealers expect increased orders by February 1st. The production of iron and steel is going on in excess of the demand but mangoing on in excess of the demand, but manrenewals and additions to plants by railroad companies, car manufacturers and other industries will have a stimulating effect in the future. Mercantile collections in the south and in the central west are reported fairly satisfactory or improving to a greater extent than for thirty days previously. The condidence of wholessie dealers in trapic lines that the near future in business promises increased activity, with an upward tendency in quotations, is pronounced at some cities.

tendency in quotations, is pronounced at some cities.

"Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Boston at the east; Atlanta, Jacksonville, Chattanooga and Galveston at the south, and at Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha and St. Louis in the west, each of these, except Cleveland, reports a moderately improved condition of business this week, as does Milwaukee. At other points the general trade is quiet, unchanged and without feature."

What Dun & Co. Say. "Neither the beginning of the new year "Neither the beginning of the new year nor the failure of the currency bill has brought any material change to business as yet. The idea that business would sudenly take a new start after the holidays had rather less foundation even than usual, but the hope of a strong revival all little later is still cherished by many. The currency bill, with its possibilities of victious amendments, was a source of apprehension to some, but with that out of the way the deficiency of treasury receipts remains, and exports of gold do not ceure. There has not been much time for change in the industries, but differences observed since the new year began are not in the direction of higher prices or larger demand. There are more indications than of late that stocks of different kinds of goods have been accumulating in consequence of the past increase in production. The weekly output of pig iron January let, reckening in some furnaces only temporarily out of biast for the holidays or repairs, was 188,414 tons, against 188,762 December 1st, showing practically no change. But stocks of unsold pig increased during the month about 20,000 tons.
"In any case the industry is doing vastly better than a year ago, when the output was less than 160,000 tons, but indications the main fact is that consumption is below expectations.

"There is more money coming in from the interior and the business of the country does not yet afford larger use for it, so that no gain appears in commercial loans. It is a most significant fact that money still comes to this center largely during the first two weeks of January.

"The failures for the first three days of the year were rather large, as is natural, with liabilities of $1.622.05, of which $366.31, with liabilities of $1.622.05, of which $366.31 were of manufacturing and $1.347.272 of trading concerns. Failures this week are 429 in the United States, against 57 last year, and $5 in Canada, against 57 last year,

Constitution Readers.

In the phraseology of ye olden time, 12 o'clock in the night was called "low 12" in contradistinction to 12 o'clock in the day, called "high noon."

The measurement of time, though made apparently in an arbitrary manner, really conforms pretty nearly to the changes provided by nature, and just how this will affect our business and social relations when the twenty-four-hour system becomes universal it is not easy to foredetermine.

Where no hour is specified in the articles themselves, the law books upon "low 12," or the hour of midnight, as the end of the day, and the determination of any contracts or agreements not so specifying.

This has an interesting side for the readers of The Constitution in the fact that the special contract by which it was enabled to secure for its readers the privilege of purchasing the Encyclopaedia Britannica at the introductory rates and on the 10 cents a day plan will expire at "low 12" midnight to night after which hour it is not within the power of The Constitution to supply a single set at the low price which have prevailed for the past few weeks.

the Georgia, However, Will Appeal the Damage Suit.

Augusta, Ga., January il.—(Special.)—The case of J. R. Forrester. of Pelham, Thomas county, Georgia, vs. the Georgia railroad, was tried. In the city court today. There was no jury, as the facts were agreed upon by both sides and Judge Eve alone decided the case.

On July 1, 1891, the plaintiff shipped to Futch & Co., a carload of melons valued at 310, via the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, which delivered the car to the Georgia road at Macon. The melons were not received in Augusta until July 7th. When they came Futch & Co., after examining them and finding the fruit decayed and unfit for use, refused to receive them from the road.

The point in the case was whether or not a receipt by the Georgia railroad to the preceding road for the car under seats, amounts to a receipt for goods contained in the car as being in good order, so, as to make the company liable. Mr. E. B. Baxter represented the plaintiff and Mr. Bryan Cumming the railroad. Judge Eve decided in Forrester's favor, but the railroad will appeal the case.

Sunshine at New Orleans Brings Out a Large Crowd.

New Orleans, January 11.—A good programme and sunny weather drew 2,500 persons to the Crescent City Jockey Club's track today. The racing was fair and the talent came out at the big end, only two favorites being beaten. In the first race Kindora led in from the quarter by five lengths, winning cany. Lester came up strong from fourth place in the stretch beating Belle Stout for third by a length. Old Dominion, a well-backed favorite, won the second by six lengths. Ludlow delayed the field at the post thirty minutes in the third race, and finally go, off last to a fair start. Redina led the entire distance and won by three lengths. Ludlow finished second, a nose in front of Luke Parks. In the fourth race Aletha Allen, a second choice, beat Glescome, the favorite, by two lengths, in the best race of the day.

First race, three-fourths of a mile, purse, Kindora 105, Thorpe, 3 to 2, won; Lester 105, Sherrin, 3 to 2, second; Belle Stout 29, W. Talor, 50 to 1, third. Time 1:254.

There Was a Spurt of Activity on Stocks in the Last Hour, Attributed to Rumors That Carlisle Would Resign.

New York, January 11 .- Speculation at the stock exchange was quiet during the greater part of the day, and it was not until the last hour that there was even an approach to activity. The spurt was due to a report from Washington, which was subsequently denied, that Secretary Cairisle had resigned. The rumor led to a raily of \(\frac{43\cong 5}{40.3\cong 5}\) per cent, the Anthracite Coalers leading. Delaware and Hudson sold up 3% to 131%; Jersey Central, 2½ to 92%; Reading, % to 13½, and Susquehanna and Western, ¼@¼ to 42. The buying of Delaware and Hudson was also due to the determination of the was also due to the determination of the owners to maintain the divdend of 7 per cent per annum, which led to investment buying. The Grangers were prominent in the rally. Rock Island rose 1 to 62%, Burlington, 1 to 72; Northwest, % to 96%, and St. Paul, % to 56%. Chicago Gas was less of a feature than usual. It opened at 78, fell to 77%, rose to 78%, and declined to 76%, 26%. These were indications of liquidations, and it was said that western caps. lations, and it was said that western capi tailsts prominently identified with the com-pany were sellers. Sugar was brought at one time on a reported improvement in the refining industry. The stock ranged be-tween 90% and 91. The heavy withdrawals of gold from the subtreasury, parity for export and partly in connection with the recent bond purchase, had no influence. Early Morning Gossip.

Dow, Jones News Co., by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager: The stock market has shrunk to such narrow limits, that little room seems to be left for anything for manipulation in the specialities. Holders refuse to sell their stock, and, even though there is no increase in outside support, the short interest has so many contracts outstanding that they find difficulty in making speculations successful.

White is said to have been selling spreads on Sugar from 87@92, running week. These privileges give small trade at times a margin of safety in operating, and some brokers fancy that sale of then has been approved by the Havemeyers with a view to awaken interest in speculation.

The New England lines and trunk lines have agreed to remove the difficulties which have existed for sometime between them regarding the freight situation in the New England territory.

The London market for Americans was dull, and only fractionally changed. The speculative interest stimulated by currency rumors early in the week is dying away.

Money easy, and consols advanced stead-ily. Some investments are in good demand. From The New York News Bureau.

The stock market opened almost life-less. The only interest shown was in Chleago Gas, which sold ¼ higher at 78, but lost ½ immediately on realizing. The Grangers were irregular, with St. Paul and Rock Island a shade better, and Burlington was heavy. The speculation is narrow, and fears of large gold engagements keep the bull temper in check. Lazard Freres will ship $600,000 in gold.

Stevens & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

New York, January II.—It is like pulling straws to predict what Liverpool would do. Naturally the market was expected to decline today to a degree commensurate to the decline here yesterday, but on the contrary, the reduction in prices there was only half a goint, and even this was regained, though the market closed quiet and the spot sales fell to 10,000 bales, while spot quotations were reduced 1-32d. Manchester was quiet and weaker. New York prices, however, advanced 4 to 5 points on the unexpectedly firm Liverpool advices, but trading here was very light and as a lxtle realizing caused a recession in prices, which left them only 1 point above the final figures of yesterday, the market closed duli, with sales for the day only 35,600 bales. The Jackson convention urged a reduction in acreage. There is a disinclination to operate freely on either side of the market until it can be determined whether the decreased receipts are due to bad weather and heavy rains, which this week must have had much to do with the falling off in the crop movement. New Orleans advanced 1 to 2 points. Spot cotton here is duil and easy at unchanged prices. The spot markets of the south were generally steady or firm at unaltered prices. Memphis sold 5,000 bales. The port receipts today were estimated at 30,000, against 48,925 this day last week and 22,36 last year. Total for the week is estimated at 210,000, against 286,361 hast week and 11,691 hast year. The interior receipts for the week are estimated at 90,000, against 18,925 this day last week and 53,115 Jast year. New Orleans receipts are estimated tomorrow at 9,000 to 11,000, against 26,366 this day last week and 7,424 last year. At Brunswick 11,216 bales were cleared for Liverpool today. In some parts of Mississippi of late the weather has been very bad, partly owing to snow. The fear that the decreased movement is on account of bad weather restrains many who would like to buy for long accounts, and on the ot

...5,490,896 Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, January II.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s cotton letter: The foreign market failed to decline as rapidly as was anticipated yesterday and the opening of our market this morning showed that it had been slightly oversold yesterday, but rumors of large receipts at Brunswick, Ga., coupled with the movement at Houston, has caused the market to lose the improvement which it gained on the opening. The feeling is yet very pessimistic regarding the future of the market, as it is felt by the trade that in the absence of speculation there must be a decline as a rault of the heavy increase in the receipts as compared with last year. The market closes duli and steady a shade better than last evening, on the loss in stocks at the interior towns, which promises to make the amount coming in signi this week 220,000, against 204,000 in the large crop year. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Cotton Crop Statement.

New Orleans, La., January 11.—The crop statement from September 1, 1894, to January 11, 1895, inclusive, issued by the New Orleans cotton exchange: Port receipts, 5,529,035 bales, against 4,434,881 last year, 3,763,164 year before last and 5,074,002 for the same time in 1892. Overland to milis and Canada, 845,156, against 602,498, 582,308 and 856,586. Interior stocks in excess of September 1st, 494,804, against 361,739, 227,746 and 564,561. Southern mili takings 357,443, against 564,561. Southern mili takings 357,443, against 57,38,872, 5,008,341 and 6,811,337. Crop brought into sight for the week 210,481 against 151,604 for the seven days ended January 11th last year, 128,601 and 284,837. Crop brought into sight for the first eleven Cotton Crop Statement.

(1,886 and 385,201.)
Comparisons in these reports are made to the corresponding date last year defore and 1892, and not to the cost of the corresponding week. Comparisons by weeks would take in 134 days of e season last year, 135 year before last dd 137 in 1892, against 133 days this year.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, January II.—Cotton advanced 4 to 5 points, but lost this and then advanced 1 point, closing dull; with sales of only 35,600 bales. New Orleans advanced 1 to 2 points. In Manchester yarns were in buyers' favor. Cloths there were quiet. Liverpool deckined 1.32d on the spot, with sales of 10,000 bales. Futures declined ½ a point, but recovered this and closed quiet. The southern spot markets were generally steady or firm at unchanged prices. The advance today was mainly due to the fact that the Liverpool news was more bullish than had been expected. Still the receipts at the ports exceeded some of the estimates, and there was enough selling to obliterate most of the early improvement.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, January 11.—(Special.)—We have had another dull day in cotton, the sales being 35,600 beles. Liverpool was practically unchanged. May opened at 5.69, sold at 5.70, sagged to 5.67 and closed at 5.88 bid with the tone dull. The crop movement for the week will be about 220,000 bales, more than the buils looked for, but rather less than the bears were counting on. There is little to be said about the market at the present except that there is nothing in the situation to encourage buying and that the average trader is afraid to sell on account of the very low prices. It is a waiting market.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox. Manager.
Chicago, January 11.—The government report yesterday had practically no effect on the market. Shortly after the opening it was reported that about 150,000 bushels cash wheat had been bought here for export, also 100,000 taken from St. Louis, and the further report of 50,000 bushels Manitoba wheat taken from Buffalo to be shipped back to Canadian mills. These reports started shorts to buying, causing another sharp advance, but as has been the case for the last ten days, when the price touched 58% offerings became very large, causing a heavy declining market. Reports from foreign markets were somewhat conflicting, while the public cables were bullish and reported %d advance. New York parties reported %d advance. New York parties reported %d dower. Receipts at primary points were about 200,000. Export clearances, 30,000. While the legitimate situation seems to be growing stronger, the market does not give much encouragement to would-be investors.

Corn opened with a slight decline, but immediately advanced about %c per bushel, due probably to the bullish feeling in wheat and the government report. Later the demand seemed to be merely mormal and it required very little effort by the shorts to depress prices back to the original figures. Indications point to another run of hogs for next week. Farmers' deliveries at stations yesterday were apparently the largest of the season. Outside speculations are becoming discouraged at the accumulation of stocks, and are inclined to stop any loss by disposal of their holdings. The action of the entire market today, both grain and provisions, was not such as would be at all gratifying to the bulls.

of the very highest recommendation, addressed to Mr. Inman and Colonel West. It was shown that the band stood first among the bands of America and was famous throughout Europe.

The committee on music was favorably apressed with the proposition made by Mr. Yesterday afternoon he was invited before the executive board and after hearing his statement concerning the band, the report of the committee on music, which was that the band be engaged for six weeks

This closed the matter, with the exception of the drawing of the contract, which will be attended to, and one of the finest bands in the country is assured to the exposition. The date on which the band will first come to Atlanta will be October 21st and it will remain until December 1st. Besides furnishing the very finest class of

Besides furnishing the very inact cause music, the band will present a great spectacle called "War and Peace," once a week. This is a great spectacular production and will be a great feature of the exposition. Mr. Holleman stated last night that his organization would present this on a great scale here. The band is composed of fifty In it are a number of the finest members. In it are a number of the lines soloists in America. They will play anything from the very finest operatic airs to the popular songs of the day. The Journalist recently had this interesting story concerning Mr. Innes, the famous band

Primarily, innes is an artist in his profession of music, but he is also famous for his good fedowship, open nature and kindliness of disposition. He is a big man; he is a big bandmaster and he has a big heart. A week or so ago some of the newspaper men went to Innes and asked him if he would kindly play a trombone solo at the benefit to be given at the Star theater in aid of the family of the late Stephen J. "That is all I want to know, said Innes," I will bring my entire band down to the theater to play at the beneft.

"The above incident is given merely as a sample of the heartiness, with which the subject of this sketch is always ready to do anything in his power for newspaper men. At the Press Club fair Innes and his band gave a Sunday night concert which was a surprise to the lovers of music who were present. The boys were so delighted at the marvelous excellence shown at this concert, that they sought out Innes to express their appreciation. Then it was discovered that the great bandmaster not only had literary tendencies, but was the regular correspondent from New York to several western papers. Shortly after he was elected a member of the Press club.

"Innes was born with a musical soul. When only a boy his wonderful performances as a soloist on the trombone, gained for him fame in London, Paris, Berlin, Hamburg, St. Petersburg and throughout Europe. The laughter died out and enthusiastic applause and wonder took its place when the golden notes from his trombone floated to the ears of the lovers of music. It took but a short time for innes to win laurels which appreciative New York audiences are always ready to bestow upon genuine artists, and his success was unqualified. Today Levy has disappeared from public view and the name of Fred Innes has become a household word in this city. "Ent Innea was ambitious His being was which progress has yet created—a perfect military band.

"In Chicago during the Columbian exposition great bands from all over Europe and from every section of the United States congregated to compete for the high honor of being pronounced the best in the world. Among others Innes's band went, there and entered into the competition. Its success was instant, and before Innes had wielded his baton a week all Chicago was literally at his feet. The newspapers, without exception, pronounced his band as unqualifiedly the best which had ever been heard in this country. Mr. Clarence Eddy, whose concerts upon the great festival organ at the world's fair gave zuch genuine enjoyment to tens of thousands of people, said of Innes's band: 'It comes nearer the perfection of a high class orchestra than any military band I ever heard.' Mr. Ecker, of Pittsburg, who enjoys the distinction of being the only 'official city organist' in America, said: 'It is the greatest band in the world.'"

The Exposition Board.

The Exposition Board. Yesterday's meeting of the exposition com mittee was an interesting one and ex-tended beyond the usual time. President Collier read a communication from Chief W. R. Joyner in regard to prizes for the firemen's tournament and a liberal appropriation was noted.

Mr. Collier also reported a contract executed with the Southern Rallway Company for the construction of terminal tracks in the exposition grounds. The work will begin

Chairman Smith of the concessions com mittee, reported a number of interesting matters, chief among which was the em-ployment of the Innes band, of New York, for six weeks, beginning October 21st. The recommendation of the committee was confirmed and the finest band in America is engaged for the exposition for those six weeks. Every week it will produce the imposing spectacular "war and peace."

A concession was approved for Captain who will erect a building 20x100 feet, with a glass tank for the exhibit A recommendation as to restaurants was also made by the concessions committee, which has a very elaborate scheme for public comfort, with restaurants or lunch counters in every building. After some discussion the matter went over for further and the state of the scheme of the state of the scheme discussion that the scheme discussion the matter went over for further than the scheme of the Mr. H. H. Cabaniss, chairman of the committee on publishing and printing, re-ported fine progress in advertising the expo-sition through the press, the railroads and class journals. He also reported that the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad had agreed to make an exhibit.

Mr. Cabanisa also reported the action of the Florida State Teachers' Association. Mr. E. E. Smith attended the Orlando convention of Florida teachers and present-ed the members with copies of the exposition prospectus. He addressed the body in a spirited speech, which was received with enthusiasm. The following is from The Orlando Dailey Reporter: Resolutions of Six Hundred Florida

The largest and most earnest gathering of teachers that ever occurred in Florida was seen at the meeting last night at Orlando. This noted gathering received the announcement with regard to the Cotton States and International exposition with a great deal of enthusiasm, and passed, with a decided unanimous vote, the fol-

owing:

"Be it resolved, by the six hundred teachers of Florida, representing its common schools, its high schools, its seminaries and its colleges, in convention assembled at Oralndo, That we hear with great and growing interest of the progress of the preparations for the Cotton States and International exposition, to be held at Atlants, Ga., September-December, 1885.
"Be it resolved, That we will give our hearty endorsement and support to this worthy effort to display the resources, the products and the opportunities for development of the southern states.

"Be it resolved, That we earnestly urge not only our teachers, but also all other enterprising citizens of Florida to make such an exhibit as will be a credit to our state, and as will show it to be in no wise behind its sister southern states in all that the states and the leaves to make a material and lateller and pehind its sister southern states in all that goes to make up material and intellectual progress.

"Be it resolved, That this association appropriate the sum of $19 for postage, to enable its committee to carry on such correspondence as will aid in the preparation of an exhibit of the school work of Florida." Mr. W. A. Hemphill, chairman of the committee on contributors for Nebraska sufferers, reported that most of the money necessary to buy a carload of corn had been contributed by exposition directors. Several additional contributions were made on the spot. Mr. Hemphill will complete the list today. So the carload of corn will go forward as the gift of the exposition President Collier received from Secretary Gresham yesterday a communication advising him that the Austrian ambassador, Hengel Muller, had sent the secretary a communication, stating that the Austrian government desired fuller information as to the character and scope of the Cotton quest for more documents.

"Devil's Auction." So much has been done for the piece in the way of novelties, that even those who have never failed to witness its annual tour, would hardly recognize it in its new dress, so great are the substitutions and additions. Mr. Yale personally declares that this season he is presenting the very finest production ever under his management, and in this claim he is substantiated by the review of The Philadelphia News, which says: "Glimore's auditorium opened its regular season last night before a house that, in size, made late comers regret their tardiness. The opening attraction was a magnificent production of Charles H. Yale's "Newest Devil's Auction," and the manner in which it was received showed that it has lost none of its popularity, with the lovers of spectacle. Mr. Yale has certainly outdone himself in this year's presentation as novelty by a master hand is shown in the scenery, costumes, ballets, specialties, and the various adjuncts which go to make up a piece of this description. The specialty features were decidedly new and very entertaining, the work of the Cee-Mee troupe in their absurdity on the trolley car being very laughable, as were the acrobatic gyrations of the French brothers, Caron, whose marvelous feats of gymnastic evolutions were phenonenal. Taken all together, Yale's production this season is far ahead of all previous presentations of the 'Devil's Auction."

BUILDING

The City Council Will Discuss the Needed Appropriation.

THE NEXT REGULAR MEETING

The Foundations of the Boys' High School Are Waiting for the Action of the Council-Supt. Slaton's Views.

At the next meeting of the city council the question of appropriating a sufficient um of money to complete the building of the new Boys' High school, on the corner of Gilmer and Courtland avenue, will b considered, and the probability is that the needed funds will be appropriated.

A central lot has been purchased and the foundation of the building has been securely laid. The work of laying these foundations has been carried on by means of a small balance saved from the general fund, and the prosecution of the work cannot be resumed until a sufficient appro-priation for the purpose is made by the good of the city in the coming years.

The cost of the new building, according to the specifications of the architect, will be $35,000. Added to this sum the cost of heating it will be about $4,000. In view of the fact that the foundations of the building have been laid and the work started the council will,2no doubt, come to the relief of the board by making the needed appropriation. The building is for the benefit of the boys of Atlanta who are growing up to fill the positions that are now occupied by influential citizens, and every dollar that is thus expended will insure the growd of the city, in the company years.

Among the graduates of the Boys' High Among the graduates of the Boys' High school are found many of Atlanta's rising young business and professional men, who have bettered the life of the community by their cultured influence. Every graduate of the Boys' High school is anxious to see the new building erected, especially in view of the fact that the boys at present are compelled to carry on their studies in the old rookery behind the Equitable building.

Major Slaton Interviewed. "If the city council votes the needed ap-To the city council votes the needed appropriation," said Major Slaton, "the new building will be thrown open to the boys at the beginning of the fall term next September. I feel sure that no obstacle will hinder the progress of the work and that the members of the city council will be ready to do all its their revers to rest, the be ready to do all in their power to get the boys out of their present cast-off building on Edgewood avenue into one of proper di-mensions and more agreeable surroundings. nensions and more agreeable surroundings.
Referring to the growth of the public chools last year the superintendent said:
"The total number of pupils enrolled for 1894 in the public schools was 12,223, an increase of nearly 1,000 over the year preceding. The total percentage of attendance for the year was 96.7. This, I venture to say, is as fine an average as any system of public schools in the country can show. For the year 1893, with a lower percentage, the schools of Atlanta attained the rank of second in the United States, and this year the schools of this city will no doubt. year the schools of this city will, no doubt, carry off the first honor. The total num ber of teachers in the schools at presen is 200, and a better or more thorough lot of teachers cannot be found anywhere. The schools, I believe, are all in good condition, and all of them are making splendid progress.

Major Slaton is kept busy with the work that piles upon him from day to day. He is a bustle of energy, however, and the more he has to do the better he seems to more he has to do the better he seems to do it. It seems that he has reserve force enough to accomplish any amount of work and the growth of the public school system with the increasing hardships entailed upon the superintendent has always found him cheerfully equal to the emergency. The people of Atlanta can hardly realize what a treasure they have in the diligeree and capability of Superinendent Slaton.

JOHN BOYD THACHER A WITNESS. He Fully Verifies a Disputed World's Fair Award.

John Boyd Thacher is laconic and decisive in his statements. During the lively campaign just closed in New York, this marked him especially as chairman of the democratic state committee. It was equally true of him as chairman of the executive committee on awards at the world's fair. This is the positive and sententious way in which he verifies, in an official letter, the honors won by Dr. Price's Baking Powder: "I herewith enclose you an of-ficial copy of your award, which in due time will be inscribed in the diploma and forwarded." Thus the question respecting the award, raised by an envious New York rival, is settled beyond cavil. This same rival, by the way, is widely advertising an award for itself. The official records prove this claim wholly false, as they show the New York pretender was not s an exhibitor at the world's fair.

MARY JANE WAS ABDUCTED. The Mountain Girl Says She Was En-

ticed from Home. Mary Jane McKeiver, the mountain girl who was found in the vacant house on Ma-rietta street, told a sensational story to Deputy Sheriff Furr, of Paulding, last night. Fur was passing through Atlanta, escorting Emma Hale, wanted for murder, to Dallas He was shown the girl and she recognized him at once. She says that Maley Matthews, who works in the copper mines, assaulted her and that Walter Rollins was hired by him and that Waiter Rolling was hired by him to carry her away in order to avoid exposure. Rollins, she claims, brought her to Atlanta and left her in the old house. The girl gives other accounts of herself. From her actions it is thought that she is insane. The sheriff will investigate her statement when he returns this morning.

Council May Meet Today to Discuss the Venable Building.

THE FIFTEEN DAYS HAVE PASSED

Mayor King Says That He Has Not Been Notified-What Mr. Sam Venable Says About It.

"My attention has not been called to the condition of the Venable building," said Mayor Forter King, "but I presume that the city attorney is acquainted with all the details of the council's action in the matter. I have nothing to say as to what may be done, as that can only be decided upon after a conference."

That was the mayor's answer to a question regarding the Venable building, and whether or not the city would go to work next Monday with the tearing down of the walls that have been declared dangerous. Today is the last day given the Messrs. Venable in which to tear down their building. The action was taken by the city council about three weeks ago, and fifteen days were given in which to take down the condemned portion of the building.

The insurance men then claimed that some consideration was due them, and the result was that a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Martin Amorous, W. L. Traynham and B. F. Longley, was selected and went to work to appraise the loss to Venable Bros. In the meantime, work was begun on the building, but the insurance people had stopped through this

As it stands now, the city will have to go on with the work. It is plain to see that if a portion of the building is taken down, all will have to go. It will have to be taken down a story at a time. The cost of the tearing down will have to be looked atter by the Venables, and it is likely that it will not cost less than $20,000 or $30,000. The building was purchased by the Venables at a cost of $125,000 and $75,000 expended in reconstructing it. This will make the expense to the owners of the building not less than $225,000. The insurance on the entire building amounts

What Mr. Sam Venable Says.

"We are in a very peculiar position," said Mr. Sam Venable. "We do not want to appear in the light of suggesting any course to be pursued by the city. Unless the entire building is torn down, I do not see how it can be done without seriously endangering the lives of the workmen. Neither my brother nor myself cares to Neither my brother had myself care to take the responsibility involved in this risk of the loss of human life.

"As I understand it, the time is up tomorrow, and I presume that the city will take steps to tear it down. We started work once, but were ordered to quit. The committee is still at work appraising the loss, and I do not know when a report loss, and I do not know when a report will be made. The insurance men do not want the building orn down, as they say it will destroy all hope of securing a proper settlement or appraisement. On the other hand, the city orders it torn down within fifteen days.

"The insurance companies and the city on fight it out. I have nothing to say can fight it out. I have nothing to say to what should be done, or what could be done, as it is a matter for the city council. No one will occupy offices. I would not go inside the building."

What the Committee May Report. It is understood that the report of the mmittee will embody more than a mere appraisement of the damage. None of the committeemen will talk, but it is stated by those thrown closest to them that the entire building may be declared unsafe

Several architects, so it is understood have declared the entire building unsafe.

HIS DECISION RESERVED.

Judge Newman Has Ballew's Motion for New Trial Under Consideration. The argument on the motion of A. Ballew, of Rome, Ga., for a new trial was resumed and concluded before Judge Newman yesterday afternoon.

Judge Newman reserved his decision and will probably announce it today week.

It will be remembered that A. W. Bal-

It was alleged in the bill of indictment that they both tried to defraud an old negrecular and the same recommender of $1800 of her pension. gro woman out of $1,800 of her pension

Paine's Celery Compound Their Best Relief.

In prescribing Paine's celery' compound for a patient the other day an Atlanta physician, who is a specialist in nervous difficulties, declared that there were thousands of such women who were literally killing themselves by too rapid movements.

"They are not satisfied," said he, "with going about doing things in a quiet, ordinary way, but rush through with their work and ruin their health as fast as they can. So firmly fixed in this habit that they run up and down stairs when there is no need

"They not only rush but worry, and be tween these two, subject their nervous systems to more wear and tear than any-thing short of wrought steel could endure." Whatever the cause, our women, ou young girls and even business men are rap idly growing more and more nervous. Pro-fessor Phelps, the great Dartmouth scien-tist, saw this alarming state of things and concentrated all his energy to remedy ing it. It was from the formula of this eminent student and thinker that Paine's celery compound was prepared.

Its success in restoring nerve-strength and building up the worn-out body repaid the years of study and investigation that Professor Phelps conscientiously devoted to the diseases of the stomach and the kidneys, the result of impure blood and im-poverished nerves. The astonishing results that have come from its careful use have een the subjects of discussion in all the prominent newspapers and magazines in this country, Canada and throughout Great Britain.

The record of this great blood cleanser from the time of its discovery up to the present day, has been a marvelous one. It has cured literally thousands of caes of nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and heart troubles and has made sound sleep possible to countless men and women whose irritable and impoverished nerves were slowly draining them of vitality.

HERE Comes a Turning Point in the Destinies of Men and of Nations.

""THE SIBYLINE BOOKS OF FATE."

The Sibyl of whom we hear most was the Sibyl of Cumæ, whom Æneas consulted before his descent to Hades. She was supposed to live 1,000 years. It was she Proud the Sibyline Books. She first offered him nine; when he refused them she burned three and offered him the remaining six at the price of the nine; when he again refused them she burned three more and offered him the emaining theee, still at the same price. Tarquin then bought them. They were entrusted to a college of fifteen men, who preserved them and consulted them on occasion of national danger,

The story relates one of the many instances in which "procrastination is the thief of time."

Tarquin the Proud did not realize when he refused the nine "Books of Fate" that he was letting slip the greatest opportunity of his life, both for the destiny of Rome and for his own aggrandizement. "Nothing makes a man appreciate opportunities like their absence."

King Tarquin paid for his folly in two ways; first, by the increased price of books; second, by being compelled to do without a large part of the wisdom contained in them.

THE CONSTITUTION can "point a moral" which only those blind to their own interests can fail to see.

THE CONSTITUTION is the modern Sibyl, the Goddess of Fate, jealous of the people's rights; she stands ever ready to warn against danger and to blaze the road to success and prosperity for her friends and readers.

The "Books of Fate" find a significant likeness in THE CONSTITUTION'S magnificent Encyclopædia Britannica. If "knowledge is power," then this great Reference Library may prove the turning point or your life; therefore, "The Book of Fate."

You, kind reader, are King Tarquin.

You have put off one opportunity to secure this fountain of knowledge at introductory prices, and you would now be obliged to pay the Publisher's regular price but for the fact that THE CONSTITUTION, stepped in and, by a valuable consideration to the Britannica publishers, secured an extension of the offer. But unless you act more promptly than did "Tarquin the Proud," this second offer will be out of your reach forever. For, after 12 o'clock tonight THE CONSTITU-TION is compelled to give up the field to the Britannica publishers, whose price for these books is from $2,50 to $4.00 per volume for identically the same volumes that THE CONSTITUTION is now furnishing at the introductory price of $1.75 to $3.00 per volume.

If you do not secure them NOW, you will THEN, for the advanced age you live in will force you into line. Neither your children nor yourself can hope to succeed like others, unless you avail yourselves of the modern equipments of success.

The warning of Sibyl comes thundering down the ages to you BEWARE OF DELAY!

And Mr. Hirsch and Mr. Tolbert Are Nov in a Very Good Humor Over What They Got.

The composition of Mayor King's con mitees for the year 1895 was discussed through the city hall yesterday again. And more animated and intense than ever before was the discussion when a group of city hall officials and frequenters got tq-

Many adversely criticised the mayor for the manner in which he had placed the membership of the committees, but the more the matter was discussed the more apparent it became that his course wa right-that it was the course any one hav ng political patronage to disburse would

Of all who discussed the formation of the committees there was not one willing to go on record as asserting that the committees were not good ones all the way through True, some suggested changes that might have been made, but none of the suggestions carried with them any evidence that the changes would have made the com-mittees stronger or better than they are now. With Mayor King's friends there was every evidence of satisfaction at the composition of the committees, every one of them declaring that the making of the

of them decising that the making of the committees was wholly in the hands of the mayor and that he alone was responsible for the composition thereof.

"Why," said one of the city hall officials, "I was not a King man, but if I had been elected mayor of Atlanta I would have done just as Mayor King has. He goes on the done that the the victor below the rolls. just as mayor king mas. He goes on the idea that to the victor belongs the spoils, and that is the right idea. It has made him stronger with his friends and has taught his political enemies just what kind of man he is. It has shown the people of Atlanta, too, the backbone of the man, and today Porter King is a stronger man than ever before. The people of Atlanta are that kind of people. They like a man who stands by his friends, and that is the kind of man Porter King has shown himself to be. Then, besides that, there isn't an Atlantian who can pick an objection to those committees, unless it be one of those who feel the slight, if slight it was, put on them. Take that list of committees up and give it a study and improve it if you can. "No, the truth is," continued the gentleman, "Mayor King found in his councilmen as good material among his friends as there was among those who opposed him, and he gave out the places that way. I don't blame him, and neither does any one else. On the contrary, I approve all he did, and the more the people think the matter over the more he people think the matter over the more ney will approve it, too." Mayor King yesterday recognized the resipt of Mr. Colvin's resignation as chair capt of Mr. Colvin's rasignation as chair-man of the committee on minutes, and in his letter to Mr. Colvin made plain the fact that he was not in the least perturbed by the paper to which he was sending a reply. After sending his letter to Mr. Col-vin, Mayor King Indited a note to Mr. Harralson, the second memoer of the com-mittee on minutes, notifying him officially of Mr. Colvin's declination or resignation. of Mr. Colvin's declination or resignation, and asking him to serve the committee as chairman until the next meeting of the adjusted. A letter of the same kind was sent to Mr. Inman, of the same committee, asking bim to co-operate with Mr. Harral-son in the discharge of the duties of the minutes committee. This will place the work of reading the minutes of the last meeting on the two gentlemen who were named with Mr. Colvin on the minutes committee until further arrangements can be made for the completion of the com-

Mr. Harralson received Mayor King's letter asking him to take charge of the minutes until the next meeting of the general council, and will do so. He does not say much about it, but what he does say shows that he is not pleased. He is not pleased, either, with the idea which went out yesterday, that he was going to resign, and takes occasion to say that as well as to say other things, remarks even more salty than those his friends said for him in The Constitution yesterday

"The statement in today's Constitution" put in the position of resigning from any of the committee positions assigned to me by Mayor King. I was elected by the people, and propose to go ahead and serve them to the best of my ability. While I do not hesitate to say that I think the mayor has been rather exclusive in his distribution of chairmanships, it is my purpose to do the best I can to serve the city. I shall not allow a personal consideration or the impression that I have been treated unjustly to interfere with my been treated unjustly to interfere with my public service. other reason why he should have taken me off the tax committee, on which I had served for two years, particularly as I was the only member left of the old tax committee. Mr. Hirsch and myself had also served for two years on the bridge committee, and, while Mayor King might have had good reasons for displacing us, I regret that our efforts were not aufficiently appreciated to obtain the recognition of a reassignment to the same duty, as was customary. We gave two years hard work with the legislature and the different railroads in getting the right of way through the property for the building of the Alabama street bridge, and were in a position where we had hoped to go right ahead with the work. While, of course, we will not be in a position to do the same work that we might have done in the carrying that we might have done in the carrying out of the plans outlined, we will, of course, do all we can to execute our duty as w. believe it will best serve the public, in the matter of bridge development."

Mr. Hirsch was another member of the body who indicated in yesterday's Consti-tution that he would throw up the sponge and give some one else a chance to conduct the committees given him. A night's sleep, however, changed the current of Mr. Hirsch's thoughts, and vesterday morning he came down town thoroughly satisfied with the committees which had been given to him. It did not take him long, however, to come to the conclusion that he would tell his friends who came in that he knew a good thing when he saw it, and that he would stay right where Mayor King had placed him. He even declared that he did not care if he had been left off the finance committee and the commit membership of the Southern Association as granted by Mr. Nick Young, of the Na tional League of Baseball Clubs was placed n file.

Delegates to the association meeting in Chattanooga next Monday were appointed and a committee to perfect all minor details was named by the chair. The Atlanta baseball club this year will be better and stronger than ever before. The gentlemen who have taken the stock are all among the leading financial men of the city and what they say about a dollar usually goes.

Hon. Joe Hirsch, the president, is known as one of Atlanta's best, most successful and leading financiers. He is known as a man who takes pride in everything that carries Atlanta's good with it, and that the club under his mastership will be an excel lent one is certain.

Mr. Bickart, the vice president, is one of the young men who is now working hard for Atlanta, and that he will do every-thing to make the club a successful one, financially and otherwise, is known by all who know him. Mr. J. F. Dickinson, the secretary and

Mr. J. F. Dickinson, the secretary and treasurer, is the manager of the Southern Belting Company, and is one of the best business men in the city. He is known throughout the south, and the mere fact that he is interested in the company is sufficient guarantee to those who know him that he will make the club a winner or quit. He has friends all over the city and will make one of the best members of the official board the Atlanta club has ever

President Hirsch will be among those wh will attend the meeting of the Southern Association in Chattanooga Monday, and from him the members of the association will receive much good, sound advice. To those who are acquainted with the baseball situation in Atlanta it must be apparent that the organization for the year 895 is the strongest that has yet been

"Try these delicious pop-overs!" Made with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Plain Party Talk. Editor Constitution-I have been thinking with some degree of curiosity and sur-prise about the late caucus of the demo-cratic members of the house. What the caucus did is too insignificant to notice except to elicit an expression of shame and regret that any caucus was held at all.

With two-thirds of our population all over the United States involved in debt and a fourth of them out of employment and waiting for a republican administration waiting for a republican administration to start the wheels of progress and prosperity, it is, indeed, very poor consolation to say, "We have passed a tariff bill and have repealed the federal election laws." What do people who cannot get employment nor money with which to pay their debts care for tariff laws and election laws? As to the tariff law passed, it must not be forgotten that a democratic president refused to sign it; that prominent members of the house and senate denent members of the house and senate de-nounced the senate for faking such a law on the party; that the chairman of the committee on ways and means crosslifted and fought against it, and finally, when he had to swallow it, proceeded off to England to be wined and dined by the nobility, with Congressman Straus as sponsor, and was so tickled with the at-tentions of the high muck-a-mucks over there that he was willing to let the measure there that he was willing to let the measure be dubbed, and laughed at the joke, "Billie Wilson's bill." Then he attempted to ex-plain to his humble constituents that it was not "Billie Wilson's bill" when he returned home, and that he never said it was, and finally how they turned Billie Wilson and his bill down, notwithstanding the fact a fortuitous circumstance in the shape of half the money raised for the democratic campaign all over the country was poured into the district, coupled with an unlimited patronage power from the good giver of gifts in the shape of office. I will call attention to a few glaring de-fects of this bill. First, what justice is there in putting

First, what justice is there in putting sugar on the free list and giving a recognized trust, the greatest in the land ¾ of a cent per pound protection—Billie Wilson voted to make it ¾ of a cent—and then say to the people: "We gave you free sugar." The people don't believe it, and they don't find it out when they go to buy their supplies. It is false and fraudulent—just what it was intended to be; it's undemocratic because the essential feature of democratic reform is to cheapen necessities and destroy trusts and combinations. The clause in the bill increased nations. The clause in the bill increased the price of sugar and helps build up the nations. The chause the price of sugar and helps build up the sugar trust.

2. Limber and wool are largely produced in the south. Next to cotton they are the chief products of many southern districts. What justice is there in putting these products on the free list and taxing the machinery that makes the finished product about the same? Possibly it was done because it was thought that the wool grower and the lumberman and the landowner would not kick, but he will find they will. They are kicking now, and the more they find out the facts the harder they will kick. These people are a slow people. They put up with many misdeeds from those in power, because in adversity and the more they find out the facts the harder they will kick. These people are a slow people. Uranus in the fith house in Tourus; Mars in the ninth in Leo and the sun in the eleventh in Scorpio. The

they will resent it, and will not be particular how it is done or who it hurts.

One thing the present congress will find out; It is that the Nova Scotia idea of free raw material is just as unpopular in the south as protection. What is the difference in principle? The objectionable feature to protection is that it builds up great monopolies and trusts. Suppose free trade does the same, as it is the purpose of the Nova Scotia coal syndicate to do? The Englishmen in Canada don't know they stand in need of free coal for their manufactories, for they have a duty of 67 cents per ton on coal. The New Englander, who is to be the great beneficiary of free coal is hard to fool when it comes to saving money. They know, as every sensible man knows, that Nova Scotia coal would in the end cost them just as much as Pennsylvania or their coal. That this is true, let us see how the reduction of the tariff on coal under the Wilson bill has affected the price of coal. T am a stock-holder in two corporations that use large quantities of coal—one in Alabam, the other in the uncountry. The hids for coal area of the price of the price of coal and the price of the price of the price of coal of the price of the price of coal of the price of the price of coal of the price of the price of coal of the price of coal of the price of the pr quantities of coal—one in Alabam, the other in Georgia; one on the seacoast, the other in the up-country. The bids for coal are submitted to both companies en the last of January. We pay identically the same price for coal in 1896 as we did in 1894. Somebody is getting the benefit of this duty on coal. But if the government got the revenue it lost there would not be such a great desire around Washington to issue bonds.

This brings up another great outrage congress is called to answer for. Every day we hear from our leaders in congress about the great necessity for another bend issue. The echo of one starcely dies out before another new one is sprung suddenly, unawares. Everybody but congress condenders.

unawares. Everybody but congress con-demns it. The depletion of our treasury goes on until in two years we have added 110,000,000 to our public debt, with a further prospect of five times as much before the cormorants are satisfied. And this is all cormorants are satisfied. And this is all done by the administration and acquiesced in peacefully and cringingly by a democratic house and senate.

The cry all over the land is for "give us reform of a financial system that holds the money in the money centers." The answer is, "bonds, bonds—fifty million or more at a clip, to further curtail the currency and to give the money brokers the means to further deplete our treasury. Is it surprising that the condemnation of such conduct is in the mouth of every such conduct is in the mouth of every man and woman except the beneficiaries of such schemes and the pap-suckers? The $10,000 annually paid, I am informed, to President Cleveland is another eyeopener. This is an innovation and grates on democratic sensibilities. Two presidents, it is true, have been assassinated, but it was not done by the people, but by cranks. Even President Lincoln went everywhere during a hitter civil war without molestation or harm. General Grant, the victorious general of a great army, who victorious general of a great army, who overrun and destroyed half of this counoverrun and destroyed half of this country, was president for eight years after the war and did not carry a guard with him or have one to look after his safety. "Backbone" is farcical that requires armed men to guard if. It has been said that public honor is security. The feather that adorns the royal bird supports his flight; strip him of his plumage and you fix him to the earth."

These are said things for me to write. I had so much hope for the party when

I had so much hope for the party when it went into power. I yet hope for the democratic reawakening. Throw the Jonahs AN OLD LINE DEMOCRAT.

STUDYING THE STARS.

Modern Women Engaged in Casting

New York, December 29.—Astrology is the dominant occult attraction in London, at the majority of West End "At Homes." No hostess is considered a succes at such un less she provides an astrologer as one of the attractions.

In New Yory the art is practiced sub rosa, and although hosts of society women de-vote much precious time to the study of their fate, as revealed by sun, moon and stars, very little is said about it to the out-side world. Intimate friends form a coterie which meets once a week, possibly frequently, to listen to fectures on ast and incidentally—so they say—have their fortunes revealed in the heavens.

"On the signals just from Mars
And read their fate through the singing stars."

With many ladies it is simply a pastime with others it might be called a matter of business; social life, philanthropies and dress even being regulated for them by messages from the spheres.

To attend an astrological lecture, or se-To attend an astrological lecture, or se-ance, is at least to pass an entertaining hour. In one Fifth avenue residence, my lady's boudoir, luxurious and sweet with burning incense, which lends an oriental touch to the occasion, is often the render-yous of half a dozen friends for whom ever Costly Credulity.

The high priestess is a woman who divides her time between Boston and New York, and so much are her services in demand or lectures, casting horoscopes and nativities that it is extremely difficult to see nativities that it is extremely difficult to see her unless an appointment is made in advance. She has her regular "clients" or patrons in New York and although willing to foretell two dollars worth of fate in the stars, so to speak, $5 and $10 is her usual charge, while for very elaborate and carefully prepared horoscopes which prognosticate everything that can possibly happen in a life time, $100 is not an unusual charge.

Fashionable Devotees. Mrs. Dunlap Hopkins is one of the most enthusiastic devotees of astrology. She even once put off a journey, because after consulting madame, she was assured that it would turn out unpleasantly; a shipwreck or some other little contretempts being indicated by Saturn, which is a malevolent planet; the other evil planets, by the way, are Mars and Uranus.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt is devoted to astronomy, with a decided leaning towards astrology. Perhaps considering the present astrology. Perhaps considering the present unpleasantness in her domestic circle she may be depending upon a combination of the planets to restore harmony after their period of hostfle influences had passed. Mrs. Vanderbilt is a subscriber to the publications of the Royal Astronomical So-ciety, and possesses a wonderful collection of telescopes—in fact, if horoscopes were only cast with telescopes she would be quite independent of a priestess. Perhaps her suspense in regard to the future has already been relieved by an astrologica consultation.

The Marqu'se Clara Lenza unbesitatingly confesses to consulting an astrologer be-fore engaging in any special work—like be-ginning a new novel, for instance.

Mrs. Goelet's Horoscope.

Mrs. Ogden Goelet consulted an astrologer once upon a time, more for the fun of it perhaps than anything else. Her iproscope was as follows:

To explain matters a little to the uninitiated, astrologers divide the sky into twelve equal parts, called the houses of heaven; each division has its special influence, as indicated in the accompanying cut.

ascending sign gives the lady the tall stature and light complexion which is her style, as well as the courtesy for which she is noted. She is rather quick-tempered—so the stars declare. Venus, so near the cusp of the ascendant, bestowed a great taste for music. The moon, in the third house, indicated a fondness for short tours. Saturn, in the sixth house, is unfayorabe; its warns of sickness to come. The sun, in the eleventh, indicates the possession of good and firm friends. friends.
Other ladles interested in this "science suppose we call it out of deference to the ladies, are Mrs. Burke-Roche, Ars. Fred-erick Vanderbilt, Miss Annie Cameron, Mrs. Newcomb and Mrs. Fernando Yznaga

As to the men who consult astrologers, if the facts were known, they are even more devoted to the study of the stars than women. Mr. James Waterbury and a host of others nave horoscopes cast at least once a year, and usually much oftener.

Jay Gould's Superstition.

The late Jay Gould spent considerable money on this hobby and always consulted an astrologer, a woman, by the way, to whom at one time he paid $250. Mr. George Gculd, too, has had his fortune read in the heavens. He also had the good luck to be born under the sun, which, in the language of the spheres, was in good aspect to the plreet Herschel. "He will be quite affable and kind, have a good temper and seldom get out of temper; will generally enjoy good health, and there is no danger but that he will live to be an old man. He will be fortunate in marriage."

will live to be an old man. He will be for tunate in marriage."

"Kindly see if my business will succeed this year, and please give me any other message from the stars," is a frequent request, accempanied by the date of birth as well as a bill, sent by many business men to astrologers before a new enterprise is undertaken.

Stars Favor Mr. Depew.

Mr. Depew has often had his horoscope cast and kindly gave me the result for use in this article.

He was born at 6 o'clock on the morning of April 22, 1834, and at that hour the 18th degree of the sign of Taurus was rising with the planets all above the earth, except: Saturn. These facts are supposed to make Mr. Depew's horoscope a remarkably favorable one. Jupiter and Venus were in conjunction, the former being in the house of fortune, which is governed by the sign gemil. This points to the amassing of a fortune. Mr. Depew is supposed to owe his success as an orator to the fact that the planet Mercury—the planet of wit, genius and intellectual superiority. The sun above the horizon on the day of his nativity, makes his anxious for place and power, but the evil planet Saturn repeats its warning that this can never be, and Mr. Depew must content himself without public office. This opposition of Saturn is the only cloud over an otherwise brilliant horoscope. position of Saturn horoscope, in otherwise brilliant horoscope, DALIA HUGHES.

A Bad Condition.

We have before called attention to a great calamity threatening the people of the South. In no section of the country is there greater need for Liver Medicines than in the sotuh, and this has encouraged unscrupulous persons to take advant age of people's misery and offer them all sorts of stuff as a cure-all for liver troubles. The big profit to the druggist is the road by which hey reach the public. Druggists of high honor will not be party to an outrage. Myers, Alex Carr and Jim Phillips Want New Trials.

ARGUMENT BEFORE JUDGE CLARK TODAY

Bailey and John Carr May Be Tried Mon day-Walpert Gave Bond Yesterday Morning.

There will probably be three motions for new trials argued before Judge Richard Clark today.

The most important of these is that of case of Alex Carr, convicted of the murder of Captain H. O. King. The third is a motion for new trial in the case of Jim Phillips, colored, charged with forgery, who has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

In none of the cases will there be anything sensational sprung, but formal grounds will be urged. In the Myers case Attorney Moyers will simply argue the facts and will urge that the verdict was contrary

Messrs Arnold & Arnold will make their argument for a new trial in the Carr case on these grounds, and will also hold that the verdict was contrary to law and evidence. Carr's insanity will be claimed.

In the case of Jim Phillips, who is charged with forgery, there will be an effort for a new trial. Phillips solid a lot of oats and corn to a wholesale merchant. He obtained this corn and oats on a forged order and he was tried and convicted accord-Matters for Monday.

is very likely that John Carr and B. E. Balley, both charged with being accessories to the murder of Captain King, will be put on trial Monday. These two cases will be called and if they elect to be tried apart it is very likely that the case of Bailey will be the first taken up.

Bailey will be the first taken up.

The state will try to prove that Bailey and John Carr both knew that Alex Carr was going to shoot Captain King, and that they urged him on. Witnesses will testify that Bailey urged Alex Carr to run after the shooting occurred. As to John Carr, the testimony is not so positive. He is implicated, however, under the charge. The Grand Jury Meets Today.

Fulton county's grand jury will meet to-day and will dispose of several matters that have been pending for some time. It is very likely that at least one true bill will be found against Mrs. M. E. Hicken, who oe tound against Mrs. M. E. Hicken, who is charged with forgery in several instances. The first charge was made by the Eads-Neel Clothing Company, but it fell through, as the main witness could not be secured. It is charged that Mrs. Hicken also forged checks on the Lowry Hardware Company.

Mrs. Hicken's leading counsel, J. E. Robinson, asserts that his client will easily comclear. There is now no charge against Dr. Hicken, but he refuses to sign his own bond. Suits for damages have been filed by Hicken and his wife against the Eads-Neel Court Cullings. W. J. Walpert, whose bond was forfeited Thursday in a case of larceny from the person, gave himself up yesterday morning and gave another bond. His case is set for a hearing on the 21st of this month.

Typer's Dyspepsia Remedy and Its Great Sale.

FEW TESTIMONIALS THAT TESTIFY

This Splendid Remedy Should Be in the Homes of Every One in the South.

Recommends It to His Fellow Sufferers.

W. E. McCall, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had been suffering for a number of years from dyspepsia, and everything I ate seemed to turn to hot burning acid in my throat and stomach. I tried your Dyspepsia Remedy and the first dose did me more good than anything else I had found. I have gained in flesh and weigh more than I ever did before. "I recommend it to my fellow-sufferers as the greatest remedy on earth."

It Never Falls-A Physician's Testi-Dr. Charles C. Ray, Atlanta, Ga., says:
"It has done more for me than all the preparations I have ever used, not only in my own case, but everywhere I have tried it. It never falls."

A Violent Case of Eight Years' Standing.

Dr. Charles O. Tyner—Dear Sir: I had been a sufferer from dyspepsia eight years
n its most violent form. I became almost a wreck. Once after an attack, which had lasted two and a half days, a friend advised me to use your Dysepsia Remedy, which has caused the disappearance of every unpleasant symptom. I heartily recommend it. J. L. JEPSON. Atlanta, Ga. Changed a Burden to a Pleasure Changed a Burden to a Pleasure.

A lady writes: "I have been a sufferer from indigestion for years and years; everything I ate souring on my stomach and making eating a burden rather than a pleasure. I took Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, and can now enjoy what I eat as much as anybody.

"MRS. W. R. MASON.

"Atlanta, Ga."

"Atlanta, Ga." Was Not Fit for Work or Pleasure. Was Not Fit for Work or Pleasure.

Charles Wallace, Atlanta, Ga., says: "For five years I had dyspepsia of the worst kind, and was not fit for work or pleasure. I tried all known remedies, consulted a number of physicians and tried their prescriptions with little or no effect. I then tried Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, and am glad indeed to testify as to its genuine merit. I am now a well man and cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering from dyspepsia or kindred ailments."

dyspepsia or analysis of Fayette All That Is Claimed for It.
All That Is Claimed for It. All That is Claimed for it.

W.C. McDuffle, Jr., druggist, of Fayette, ville, N. C., writes: "Your Dyspepsia Remedy. I have tried and I find it a good medicine—all that is claimed for it. You may ship me several cases at once. The publice here are becoming to realize that it has no equal."

The Only Medicine. April 25, 1882.—Mr. C. O. Tyner, Atlanta, Ga. Your Dyspepsia Remedy is the only medicine that has ever relieved me of indigestion and a heavy, sluggish feeling after eating. It is a good medicine. Albany, N. Y. JOHN WICKS.

No Remedy as Effective. Atlanta, Ga., November 24, 1833.—Dea Sir: I am a great sufferer from sick headache, and have found no remedy so effective as your Dyspepsia Remedy. If taken when the headache first begins it invariably cures.

ANDY E. CALHOUN.

Excellent Advice.

Atlanta, Ga., November 24, 1893.—Deat Sir: I would advise all to use your Dyspepsia Remedy who suffer from indigestion. It acts speedily and surely. Yours your truly,
